

Democrat Gaining in N. Dakota Senate Race

Gov. Davis' Slim Lead Being Cut

Washington —(U)— Republican Gov. John E. Davis held desperately to his lead early today in North Dakota's special election for senator.

With the rural vote seeping in, Democratic Rep. Quentin Burdick cut that lead constantly. He threatened to overtake Davis before the final returns come in.

If Burdick does, it will mean one piece of bad political news for Republicans piled on another.

The first came yesterday with a clash between Republican governors. It offered political observers the unusual sight of a Republican family squabble in public.

At the governors' conference in Glacier National park, Mont., Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York attacked the Eisenhower administration's defense policies as the cause of a "paradox of peril."

Leads in Cities
A Republican colleague, Gov. Cecil H. Underwood of West Virginia, promptly reported that Rockefeller's remarks indicated "a display of political cowardice."

In North Dakota, with 1,733 out of 2,310 precincts reporting, Davis had 89,746 votes and Burdick had 86,268.

As expected, Davis piled up an early lead in the cities. At one point, he led by more than 8,000 votes.

But he did not do as well in the cities as he had done in 1958 when he won the election for governor. In fact, yesterday's city vote for Davis was less than analysts had predicted he would need to offset the rural vote for Burdick.

If Burdick wins the election, it will be considered a sign of the farm belt's possible dissipation.

Banker Named in $900,000 Theft

Jacksonville, Fla. —(U)— The executive vice president of the Bank of Graceville has been charged with embezzling more than $900,000 and investing it in his businesses.

James Nixon Cooper, 50-year-old father of three children, was arrested yesterday and charged with violating the federal reserve act. He was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner John H. Carter, Jr., and released on $5,000 bond.

D. K. Brown, special agent in charge of the Jacksonville FBI office, said the bank's records were examined, and that during the past six years "in excess of $900,000" had been diverted by Cooper from the bank to businesses owned or controlled by him.

The FBI said Cooper was owner of Tri-State Construction company of Graceville and Chipley Body Works at Chipley. Both are in northwest Florida.

Locks Paper Mill Obtains $7 Million Loan

Plan Improvements At Local Plant, Eastern Subsidiary

A $7 million loan has been taken by Combined Locks Paper company, it was announced today by G. D. Muggleton, president.

About $5 million will be used for improvement and expansion of the Combined Locks plant and its subsidiary, the D. M. Bare Paper company, Roaring Spring, Pa. The money will be split almost equally between the two plants, with a slightly larger portion going to the Bare Paper mill, he says.

Remainder of the loan will be for refinancing past work. The loan was obtained through a group of insurance companies, and is to be retired by 1975.

Work Planned
Planned for the Combined Locks plant is rehabilitation and improvement of two paper machines now in use, increasing the capacity of the pulp mill and other projects to increase production and reduce costs.

Special emphasis will be put on machine coated papers, including coating adapted to the use of rotary offset printing presses.

Plans for the Bare mill include one new paper machine, replacing one in use now, a new recovery boiler, heat exchanging equipment to conserve power and equipment for increasing the capacity of the pulp mill.

It is expected the improvement and expansion program will be completed within three years, Muggleton said.

6 Boys Feared Dead In Wisconsin River

Chicagoans Disappear as They Try to Reach Island Near Camp in Juneau County

Mauston —(U)— Six boys, ranging in age from 12 to 14, are believed to have drowned in the Wisconsin river Tuesday night while attempting to reach an island opposite a camp for underprivileged children.

W. Pomirko, director of the camp, said it was presumed that the boys drowned. No trace of them has been found. The youths were holding onto a rope from the river bank along the camp's property when they apparently were swept under by the current.

Pomirko said at first it was believed five boys were missing. A check set the number at six.

Pomirko declined to identify the missing boys except to say that all are from Chicago. They were attending the Ukrainian Youth camp which opened its third season on Sunday. Sixty boys and 40 girls all from the Chicago area, are enrolled in the camp.

The weather was ideal when the boys set out for the island, one of a number dotting the swift Wisconsin which had been swelled by recent heavy rains. Pomirko said similar junkets to the island had been made by campers before.

The full manpower of the Juneau county sheriff's office was concentrated in dragging operations, centered near the Point Bluff bridge.

Russians Plan Rocket Tests In Pacific

Tell Other Nations To Keep Ships and Planes From Area

BY PRESTON GROVER

Moscow —(U)— The Russians plan to lob a new series of powerful multi-stage test rockets into the central Pacific next month about 1,000 miles southwest of Hawaii.

An announcement last night said the new rocket shoot will be held July 5-31 over a 50,000-square-mile target area about 150 miles farther to the southeast than the landing area of Russia's first Pacific rocket tests last January.

In their first test the Russians said they fired a rocket some 7,000 miles and came within a mile of the target. The United States subsequently fired a Super-Atlas rocket, 9,000 miles, from Cape Canaveral past the southern tip of South Africa.

Warning Issued
Russia warned other nations to keep their ships and planes out of the test area, which lies about 200 miles west of American-held Palmyra island and within 600 miles of Christmas island, where the British touched off their first hydrogen bomb.

Tass news agency, which issued the announcement, said the rocket used in the July tests will not be equipped with the final stage. This apparently meant they will not carry warheads.

The announcement came a few hours after Premier Nikita Khrushchev called on a group of Soviet military school cadets to "master the conditions of a rocket and nuclear war which is what the imperialist aggressors are preparing."

Defense Measure Set at $40 Billion

Compromise Bill Offers Ike's Administration Major Wants Plus $650 Million It Opposed

Washington — (U) — A compromise defense bill of just under $40 billion today offered the Eisenhower administration most of its major military requests plus some $650 million it opposed.

A senate-house conference committee, compromising differences between the two bodies, gave the bill its final form late Tuesday. The house will take up the revised measure Friday. Senate action also is required.

House spokesmen agreed to $235 million to build a new attack aircraft carrier for the navy; $244 million to produce B-70 jet aircraft weapons system. The house had voted these down.

In exchange senate negotiators accepted a slash of more than $400 million in military procurement funds — a reduction the senate had rejected. The house said this 3 per cent across-the-board cut was needed to improve military contracting and carve out waste.

Restores Cuts

Clerks worked late computing these reductions in scores of separate items for missiles, aircraft, tanks, ships, submarines and the vast new pentagon shopping lists. They expected to have details ready for filing in the house sometime today.

President Eisenhower had asked a military outlay of about $39.13 billion for the fiscal year that begins July 1. The house kept near this total but cut out more than a billion of pentagon requests, and then added an equal sum for its own ideas.

The senate restored many of the house cuts and approved its own additions to push the amount $1.1 billion above the house. The compromise cuts this back about one-half.

Carrier Money

The $235 million for the carrier was rejected by the house as was the $244 million for the B-70 jet aircraft weapons system, which has had a spot record in early tests.

The compromise provides full money for the carrier but eliminates $50 million of the B-70 funds and another $75 million the senate had added to equip two bases in the Pacific northwest.

It also includes $162½ million to speed up modernization of tanks, guns and other equipment for the army, or about $100 million less than the senate had approved.

Hasten Development

The senate had voted $235 million extra to hasten development of the 2,000 mile-an-hour B-70. The compromise holds this to $190 million on top of $85 million asked by the administration and voted by the house.

Other compromises include: $170 million to prepare for an airborne alert on the strategic Air Command to prevent its possible destruction on the ground by surprise attack. This was double the pentagon's budget request.

$200 million extra to expand the military airlift to carry army and marine combat forces to any global trouble spot: This was some $50 million less than voted by the house.

$84 million, some $50 million above the house figure, to speed development of military satellites, including the Samos spy-in-the-sky project.

Raise Teaching Quality Higher, Educator Says

Must Guarantee Every Instructor Is Competent

Los Angeles — (U) — The teaching profession must raise its own standards so high that incompetence can never get into a classroom, a prominent educator said today.

Dr. T. M. Stinnett said, "Our goals must be more than just higher salaries and more of this and more of that."

"The profession must do those things which will guarantee that a person who goes into a classroom is a competent teacher, and guarantee that an incompetent person will not be allowed to teach."

Stinnett, executive secretary of the National Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards, was interviewed at the annual convention of the National Education Association.

"We don't have now the sanctions we need. Most states require three years of probationary teaching, but after that it is virtually impossible to get rid of the bad teachers."

Stinnett cited what he called tremendous strides the teaching profession has made since World War II.

"In 1946," he said, "one in every six teachers was substandard, or lacked a full certificate. Today it's only one in 13, despite the vastly increased teacher shortage."

"In 1946, only 15 states required that an elementary school teacher have a college degree. Today the number is 46."

"We have come a long way since the war years. We estimate that between 1940 and 1946, more than 600,000 persons drifted in and out of teaching. Today, we have a much more stable profession."

Stinnett predicted that within three or four years accredited colleges and universities will be turning out more than 90 per cent of the new teachers. The accredited schools are those recognized by the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

Canadian Senate Adopts Russian Trade Agreement

Experts Flabbergasted Monroe Plans At Red Achievements General's Fete

Soviets Will Get Way Ahead of West if We Don't Buckle Down, Englishman Says

Moscow — (U) — Western experts say they are flabbergasted by Soviet achievements in automation.

"They will really get way ahead unless we buckle down to work," said one top British authority attending the first international congress on automations now being held in Moscow.

The British visitors said the Russians had used a "leap frog technique" — skipping intermediate steps the west had to make — in their development of automatic devices for computation and control systems in industry.

Thought for Years "They sat down to think for five or six years and now the result of this thought is beginning to pay off," said one visitor.

The consensus of Westerners after a tour of the Soviet Institute of Automation and Telemachanics was that it was far ahead of anything in the West, with only the Massachusetts Institute of Technology remotely approaching the standards of the Russian institute.

"We've been a bit shattered," said one Western delegate to the congress. "We never dreamed this level had been reached."

Another told reporters: "If you want a general opinion, just say we are all lost in admiration."

New Systems What called forth the panygeries were Russian self-optimizing systems, now in production, and pneumatic computing instruments, neither of which, the experts said, had been achieved in the west.

The first of these is basically a self-correcting control system which automatically seeks the optimum level. The Russians are using it to control temperatures in steel mills and also to keep power in radio transmitters at the most efficient level.

The pneumatic computers have no moving parts and thus are more reliable than the electronic devices used in the West. They also can be safely used in such places as chemical plants where electronic controls would be hazardous.

Most in the Western group said they were convinced "suddenly all will click into place" and outmoded office and factory practices will be replaced almost overnight with new, highly advanced devices which apparently are in assembly line production.

They said this would vastly improve the quality as well as the quantity of Russian production and added, "we ought to be scared."

Monroe — (U) — In a burst of community activity, usually seen only in the years of this

Swiss city's cheese festivals, a 40-acre tract of land at the north edge of town is being developed into a new city park in a matter of weeks.

The reason for this flurry results from Monroe's pride in the world's No. 1 airman whom it claims as its most distinguished native son — Gen. Nathan F. Twining, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff.

Some time ago, the park board agreed to name the proposed new facility as Gen. Nathan F. Twining park.

Gen. Twining was invited to come to Monroe to appear personally at ceremonies dedicating the park in his name. That invitation was sent while Gen. Twining was recovering from emergency surgery for a perforated appendix.

He acknowledged the invitation but found it impossible to set a date or even given any encouragement to the program sponsors.

Three weeks ago, the Jaycees were happily surprised to hear from Gen. Twining that he would show up on July 4. That touched off the flurry of action by an excited community.

The surplus F86D Sabre jet interceptor plane which had been donated to Monroe as a permanent memorial to airmen of all wars was brought here from Trux air force base via truck convoy two weeks ago.

Heads of State Discuss Painting, Noodle Soup

Eisenhower Explains Subjects in Toast To Visiting King and Queen of Thailand

Washington — (U) — "What do heads of state talk about when they meet on ceremonial occasions?"

Sometimes it's such simple things as noodles and ice cream, grandchildren and painting, President Eisenhower said last night in proposing a toast to visiting King Bhumibol of Thailand.

Today they meet again for a conference in advance of the king's address to a joint session of congress.

Exchange Toasts Eisenhower and King Bhumibol exchanged toasts during a formal White House dinner honoring the king and Queen Sirikit. Speaking whimsically, Eisenhower remarked that he had seen speculation in newspapers as to what heads of state can possibly talk about when they meet.

People worry about this, he said. So far as he and the king are concerned, "the main purpose is to find out what each is like."

Finding that the king and queen have the same family concerns "as each of us . . . brings us closer," Eisenhower said.

Fortunately, he added there are no great problems between Thailand and the United States. The two countries have a long history of friendship.

Retire Brushes The Thai king showed Eisenhower some reproductions of his paintings.

"I promptly retired my brushes, because he is talented and mine is what you would call a dab," the president went on.

Very Human Bhumibol, not to be outdone, tossed away a prepared speech and replied in kind to the president. "I have experienced something more, to know, really know Mr. Eisenhower, Mrs. Eisenhower, personally," he said. "To know them like I thought they were: Very human."

"All the people here are so friendly," the king said. "That is a great lesson to show our children—that the world is big and everybody is friendly if you are friendly."

YOUR 2,500,000 SWEAT GLANDS

There are — count them if you are skeptic — upwards of 2,500,000 sweat glands in the surface of your body. These are working all the time but their activity becomes particularly noticeable in warm weather.

It isn't the heat, though that controls perspiration. A vital part of the mechanism for maintaining body temperature, sweating is under involuntary nervous control. Sweat comes from your blood produced by tiny glands in the deep layers of your skin. The secretion escapes through a corker-shaped tube whose outer end is a visible pore of your skin.

Nerves control all body functions. Chiropractic adjustments normalize the function of the nervous system to restore and maintain health.

Man Admits Stabbings

Man, Woman, Three Children are Slain As Jealousy Erupts

Chicago — (U) — Smoldering shames and jealousy burst into violence last night, police said, and resulted in the fatal stabbing of a woman, her male companion and the woman's three young children.

A dishwasher, Raimundo Perez Hernandez, 35, was arrested hours later walking on a near north side street. Police reported he readily admitted the slayings, saying he was ashamed because his former common-law wife left him for another man.

The woman, Maria Gomez Hernandez, 25, was found dead of multiple stab wounds in her north side apartment. The body of Julio Luyando Perez, 26, lay in a pool of blood in a nearby hallway.

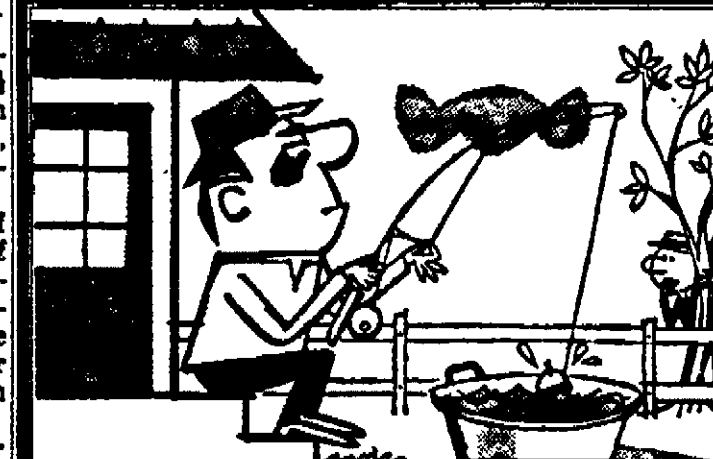

The woman's three children — Rosita Hernandez, 2; Carmen Hernandez, 4, and Emma Gomez, 6 — were found dead on a bed in Hernandez' nearby apartment. All were fully clothed and had been stabbed repeatedly.

The death weapon, an 11-inch butcher knife, was found tucked in Hernandez' belt when he was arrested, officers said.

Police said Hernandez came from Puerto Rico six years ago and speaks no English.

Liberal Sen. W. D. Euler of Ontario, a former minister of trade and commerce, questioned whether the full exchange would be possible. He noted that Canada last year bought only $2,291,000 worth from the Soviet Union.

day turned loose a bill to raise the minimum hourly wage from $1 to $1.25 over three years and extend coverage to 3 1/2 million more workers. With it went a substitute bill with a $1.15 minimum wage, and a more limited extension of coverage, to 1,400,000 workers. The house may vote tomorrow.

Hold Up Housing Bill
The same rules committee by a 6-6 vote refused to clear a $1,365,000,000 housing bill pushed by Democratic leaders. That just about killed chances for its passage before the conventions. Rep. Albert Rains (D-Ala.), chairman of the housing subcommittee, said "there will be a housing bill. There has to be. August will be time enough."

A senate-house conference committee last night agreed on a compromise defense money bill providing just under $40 billion and including most of the administration's requests. It probably will come up in the house for expected approval Friday.

As expected, the senate passed and sent to the president the annual tax extension bill. It temporarily increases the federal debt limit and extends $4 billion in federal taxes for another year.

The senate shelved — by sending it back to committee — a bill to rewrite the player-draft rules of organized baseball and to provide limited exemption from anti-trust laws for baseball and three other professional team sports.

Kelly Leaves $500,000 Will

Philadelphia — The late John B. Kelly, Philadelphia millionaire and father of Princess Grace of Monaco, told his family in his will he would give them character instead of money if he had the choice.

"The reason I say that is, with character, you will get worldly goods, because character is loyalty, honesty, ability, sportsmanship, and, I hope, a sense of humor," Kelly said.

The will, written with humorous touches by Kelly himself, leaves most of his estate to his wife, three daughters, and his son.

The will, which also revealed that its contents were made known to the family before Kelly's death, was estimated at upwards of $500,000 for probate purposes. This does not include his ownership of the nation's largest brick contracting firm which bears his name, the Atlantic City race track or other corporate holdings.

Kelly, Olympic rowing champion of the 1920s, who died last week of cancer at the age of 70, dictated the will April 14. It was made public Tuesday.

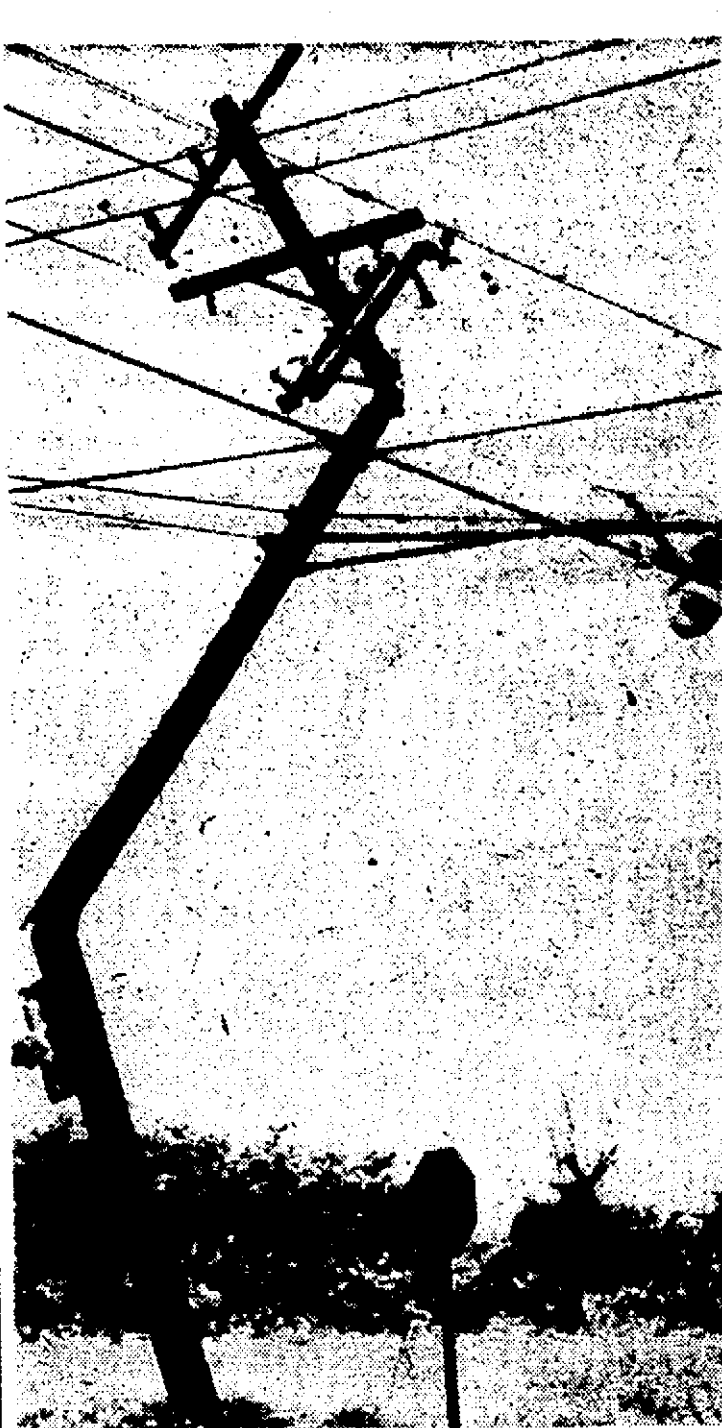

Sub Damage Laid To Crew Member

Portsmouth, N.H. — The navy says a crew member was responsible for recent sabotage aboard the nuclear-powered submarine Nautilus.

Capt. James B. Grady, commander of the Portsmouth naval base, did not disclose Tuesday the name of the man who chopped a hose being used to test the sub's evaporators.

Grady said an investigation is continuing but declined to say whether the man underwent disciplinary action.

Last fall some electrical cable on the Nautilus was cut and the navy called it "intentional damage." No report has been issued on that damage as yet, Grady said.

isfaction with the policies of Sec. of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson. Any dissatisfaction could be significant in the presidential election in November.

The winner will serve the 4 1/2 years remaining in the term of the late William Langer, the colorful maverick of the senate. Langer was a Republican. He was succeeded on an interim basis by former North Dakota Gov. Norman Brundage, a Davis appointee and also a Republican. Yesterday's special election was set to coincide with the state's regular primary.

Urges Bigger Budget

At the governors conference yesterday, Rockefeller urged a $3 billion increase in the defense budget. He said the country now is "more exposed to fatal danger than ever before in our history."

At a news conference, Underwood was asked whether Rockefeller was exploiting national defense for political purposes.

"Well, what else could it be?" Underwood asked.

The West Virginia governor said that if Rockefeller wanted to criticize defense policies, he should have continued as a candidate for the Republican nomination.

Rockefeller continued his running argument with administration policies today. In a paper for a discussion panel, he criticized an administration proposal on medical aid for the aged.

The governor described the proposal as "fiscally unsound." Instead, he proposed a program similar to one advocated by some Democrats.

The Eisenhower proposal would subsidize the health insurance of needy persons over 65 years old by using a means test. Rockefeller wants social security payroll taxes to pay for health insurance of the elderly.

Runs In Idaho

In other political developments, Robert McLaughlin won the Democratic nomination for senator in Idaho. He will face Republican Sen. Henry C. Dworshak in November.

In the runoff primary yesterday, McLaughlin defeated State Rep. Gregg Potvin for the nomination.

In Washington, 15 Republican senators issued a declaration of principles yesterday which they said the GOP should adopt. The senators, identifying themselves as part of "the main stream of progressive Republicanism," said they believed in, among other things:

Positive domestic programs for housing, education, medical care for the aged, depressed areas, the family farm.

They also said that while they believed in fiscal responsibility, "we must place human values above material consideration."

The signers included Sens. George Aiken of Vermont, Jacob K. Javits of New York, John Serman Cooper of Kentucky and Thomas H. Kuchel of California.

A conservative Republican, Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, described the principles of the 15 senators today as "precisely what will defeat the Republicans."

He said their program would require more taxes and more government control.

Endorsees of the Republican state convention led today in contests for the GOP nominations for U.S. representatives, governor and lieutenant governor in North Dakota. Endorsees of the so-called splinter Nonpartisan League ran against the Republican state convention nominees.

Returns from 905 of North Dakota's 2,310 precincts gave Rep. Don Short 43,661 votes and Hjalmar C. Nygaard 28,606. William R. Mills had 7,329 and Roger Vorachek 4,216. Short and Nygaard were endorsed by the GOP state convention and Mills by the splinter league. Vorachek ran without group backing.

Lt. Gov. C. P. Dahl, endorsed by the Republican convention for governor, had 31,819 votes from 932 precincts. Orris G. Nordhagen, the splinter league group's choice, polled 9,255.

A close race developed for the lieutenant governor nomination. The GOP convention

Submerged Polaris Rocket Launching Scheduled in July

Cape Canaveral, Fla. — The George Washington, first of the Polaris-firing nuclear submarines, arrives Friday to prepare for key underwater launchings of the missile.

The 380-foot, 5,400-ton sub will steam into Port Canaveral about 7 a.m. For about two hours to officially take up its station here. Then it will return to sea for further tests before returning next week for several weeks' stay. Sometime in July, a 28-foot Polaris will be inserted in one of the submarine's 16 vertical launching tubes. The George Washington will cruise submerged to a spot about 30 miles offshore and fire the missile toward a target 1,000 miles down range.

A successful shot will put the Polaris well on the road to its operational goal of this fall. The navy hopes to send the George Washington and a sister ship, the Patrick Henry, on patrol by the end of this year.

Traffic Tickets Are Illegal but Very Effective

Memphis, Tenn. — Traffic tickets here are "a form of blackmail," says a city judge.

Judge B. R. Boushe yesterday said the city code doesn't have an ordinance that mentions anything like a traffic ticket. So what is the legal status of the tickets?

"It amounts to a form of blackmail," said Boushe. "An officer gives a fellow a ticket for running a red light. He is in effect saying, 'Go on down to the traffic bureau or we'll take you to traffic court.'"

The judge said the traffic bureau itself is in a sort of legal limbo because there is no city ordinance that provides for it, either.

Boushe said he wasn't trying to eliminate traffic tickets and any driver who ignored them would surely wind up in court. He just wants the tickets and traffic bureau legalized.

Slayer May Get Death Sentence

Miami, Fla. — A death sentence looms for Dennis Whitney in one of seven slayings the 17-year-old California drifter has admitted.

The sentence, to be pronounced by Circuit Judge Harold R. Vann, is mandatory under action by a jury that convicted Whitney of first degree murder in the shooting of Arthur Keeler, and voted 10-2 against recommending mercy for the taciturn hitchhiker.

Whitney, stolid throughout his brief trial for the Keeler gasoline station holdup slaying, appeared dazed when the jury of 11 men and a woman reported its findings yesterday. His sisters wept in the courtroom and one shrieked "Oh, no." His lawyers said an appeal would be made.

A Palm Beach county jury earlier had convicted Whitney of first degree murder in the shooting of Mrs. Virginia Selby, but made a mercy recommendation that compelled the court to mete out a life sentence instead of sending Whitney to the electric chair.

If Dennis goes to the chair from Dade county, he will be the youngest white criminal Florida has ever executed. Whitney signed a statement admitting he killed Keeler and put his own fate into the jury's hands.

The killing was one of three he confessed committing in Florida. Earlier, Whitney said, he fatally shot four other persons in a transcontinental hitchhiking trip.

Moscow Store Offers Consumers Installment Plans

Russian Economy Faces Tasks
Posed by Creeping Capitalism

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN
Associated Press News-Analysis

New York.—In a corner of the enormous, sprawling building of GUM, Moscow's central department store facing red square and the gloomy Lenin-Stalin tomb, a sign advertises items that can be bought on installments.

These include photography equipment, motor bikes, electric sewing machines, refrigerators, and other high-priced goods.

The ordinary Russian would have to save his money for a long time in order to be able to pay cash. Now all he has to do is to bring a statement signed by his superior, testifying to his employment and income. Deductions will be made automatically from his wages as all the stores are operated by the government.

This is only one of the multiplying manifestations of what may be a burgeoning Soviet problem: what to do about creeping capitalism?

Capitalist methods edge into the Soviet internal trade picture for a variety of reasons.

Items Clog Shelves

Extremely high-priced hard goods normally move slowly, since they are out of range of most Soviet pockets. Everyday items like clothing, shoes and appliances are almost invariably shoddy. The shelves of the stores are becoming clogged.

Third of Series

Store managers are beginning to complain and even balk about accepting shabby consumer goods from factories. Prospective buyers are showing sales resistance, and goods collect dust for months. The consumer often hoards his rubles to compete for better—and thus scarcer—items.

To attack merchandising problems in a rigidly controlled communist economy, authorities resort to capitalist methods: installment selling, credit, more advertising, (store windows blossom with special sales announcements and slashed list prices), and new neon signs proclaim the virtues of a variety of products.

In some consumer categories there is a veritable glut of goods. But factory managers fulfill their quotas by quantity, without giving much of a hoot about quality.

Suit Costs $140

A man's suit that couldn't fetch $20 in an American bargain basement goes into the Soviet stores priced at $140, or two months pay for the average Soviet worker.

Cotton dresses no American woman would want to wear in public retail at the equivalent of $10 to $20. A shoddy pair of sandals is priced at $28. A crudely fashioned man's shirt costs $11.

Those who have money—and there are many highly paid Soviet people—resist such things. They wait for shipments from abroad—perhaps from communist Czechoslovakia, which is years ahead of the U.S.S.R. in quality consumer goods. Muscovites tip one another off when shipments reach the stores, and rubles come out of hiding. Foreign shipments are snapped up quickly, while Russian manufactures go begging.

In short, many consumers are sick of shoddy goods. They would rather have quality goods than mere money. Consumer production is on the books, but it is far from the quality the Soviet citizen is beginning to demand.

The attitude apparently has been transmitted to the Kremlin. Remedies, however, are difficult, since they often can be contrary to communist dogma.

Remedies Annoy Some

Capitalist-like measures have been an outgrowth of Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev's policies, and probably are among the many factors that provoke annoyance among hidebound, reactionary Stalinists in high places. Khrushchev has tried to follow a line of persuasion, rather than coercion, in keeping the Soviet public in line. But persuasion implies incentives and rewards. The consumer industry does not produce quality sufficient for rewards, so can it without upsetting Soviet dogma.

The Soviet premier soon may be, if he is not now, in an unenviable position as far as his popularity is concerned. The process of social change that has been going on for years in the Soviet Union has been building something similar to a middle class—sober, intelligent and eager to better itself.

Relaxations, veering away from the police state since Stalin died, hastened social change to a point where it seemed to be getting out of hand. Khrushchev, in spite of himself, may be forced to try to halt the process.

The planned Soviet economy bases itself on quantity production. Quality belongs to the apex of the economy, where the talents, riches and energies of the state are poured into massive heavy industry, arms, missiles, satellites and other means of enhancing political authority.

For the rest of the economy, there must be a minimum of frills. The consumer cannot be offered too much choice in what he buys, without breaking down some of the rigid

Sidewalk Must Be Replaced

Contractor Admits Unclear Instructions Led to Violations

A misunderstanding in instructions is going to cost an Appleton contractor about $216.

E. C. Schroeder, 1716 W. Packard street, was called before the street and sanitation committee Monday to explain why he violated the city's sidewalk ordinance after he had called city hall to inquire about the ordinance.

Schroeder's men installed a sidewalk at Jefferson and Harding streets, where he has a home under construction. He said he did not tell the men to put it in, but instructed them to frame in the driveway, then left for another job site.

"I know the ordinance was violated and I'll take the full responsibility for not making my instructions clear," he said.

10 Violations

The city inspector found 10 violations of the ordinance when he inspected the sidewalk.

Schroeder had no license for sidewalk work, there was no nameplate stamp at either end of the 120-foot walk, the radius apron was installed at the corner (usually done by the city), no expansion joint was installed at the curb, no expansion joints were in the walk, the builder didn't get a grade level, didn't have the proper drainage pitch and the walks were less than four inches thick.

Schroeder contended he did get a grade level from the city engineer, that the pitch was right and the walks were four inches thick.

Director of Public Works Edwin Duszynski said his inspector found the pitch to be three-fourths of an inch instead of the required 1 1/2 inches, and that it is impossible to get the walk four inches thick using two-by-four frames. A finished two-by-four is 3 1/2 inches thick he said.

The committee decided Schroeder would have to remove the walk and have it put in according to the ordinance. Sidewalk costs about $1.80 a foot.

Boat Accident Causes

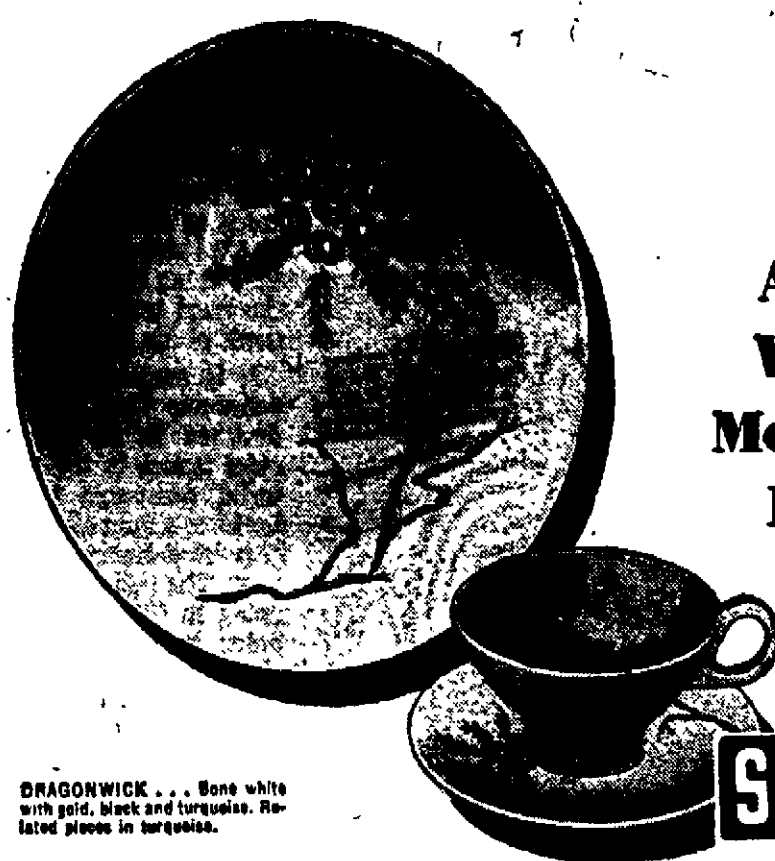

Boating enthusiasts should do their "rocking" at home in the family rocking chair. The Institute for Safer Living lists the following as the principal actions which cause fatal accidents in boating: (1) Operator negligence which includes falling overboard, reckless operation, too sharp turn, standing and overloading. (2) Capsizing or overturning. (3) Swamping by wake, wash, wave or storm. (4) Collision with boat, rocks, reef or submerged object. (5) Faulty or mis-matched equipment.

Are Our Speed Limits Correct?

There was a time in Wisconsin, about 35 years ago, when the speed limit on state highways was 35 miles per hour. Each county and most cities had traffic police to prevent motorists from running down pedestrians, dogs, chickens and other animals that might wander onto the highways. Many localities expected the fly cops, as they were called, to earn their keep. This was done by making a certain number of arrests per day. Since the speed limit was too low for practical purposes, drivers almost universally ignored it. Thus the traffic officers could arrest anyone they wished and be sure that a case of speeding would stand up in court. In fact, few people denied driving faster than 35 miles per hour although they frequently argued in traffic court that they were within the range of safety and should go free.

Today things are different. We have reasonable speed limits on the open highways and there are areas in which much lower speeds are required. Many cities and suburban areas have long distances posted for 25 miles per hour. This is generally recognized as too low for practical purposes. Most motorists violate this speed limit openly until an accident occurs and there is a tightening up of enforcement. On such occasions the traffic officers are in position to arrest almost any driver in the area.

The tendency in recent years has been to raise the speed limit to more practical figures. B. A. Precourt of the Wisconsin division of the American Automobile association is a strong advocate of setting speed limits at a reasonable level. He says that higher speed limits usually result in better compliance and also in an actual reduction in accidents. On the other hand, unreasonably low limits often bring about an increase in average speeds and a drop in voluntary compliance.

He reports an experiment in which the speed limit was raised on the basis of engineering surveys. There was a general decrease in the driving speed. The proportion of motorists observing the posted limits more than doubled while accidents were reduced 35 per cent. In another location, he said, the speed limit was reduced from 40 to 25 miles per hour contrary to engineering advice. It was hoped that this would improve traffic safety but the average vehicle speed increased by seven miles per hour, there was a much greater differential in vehicle speeds, which meant more overtaking and passing and a less efficient flow of traffic. He says that many states now are getting away from the idea that one speed can fit all major highways. Speed zoning which fixes the speed according to the nature of the highway is the most progressive idea, he says.

The rule he offers is given in these words: "Setting the proper speed for each segment of highway, using the speed in which 85 per cent of the vehicles travel, and taking other factors into consideration, represents the rational and modern approach to the speed question. This approach should be adopted by all states of the union."

The arbitrary fixing of a statewide speed limit is the lazy man's way of handling the problem. The traffic police must enforce each law as it is written but the establishment of proper speed limits at various points along the highways, according to the 85 per cent rule, would eliminate perhaps 50 per cent of our present traffic problems and would therefore be well worth doing. If Mr. Precourt is right, a good deal of the money now spent in enforcement of our antiquated speed limits could better be spent in applying the 85 per cent rule and posting the roads accordingly. We think it would be well worth while for Wisconsin to select one through state highway for the application of this rule as an experiment.

'Who Has Who in the Bag?'

What Others are Saying

From Wisconsin Motor Vehicle Department Bulletin

"Falling asleep at the wheel" was listed as the primary cause of 36 fatal and 558 injury accidents in Wisconsin in 1958. This also was regarded as the main cause of 47 fatal and 506 injury accidents in the state in 1957.

The probability is great that an even larger number of our serious accidents could be traced to sleepy drivers, whose lack of attention during the moments leading up to an accident led to other violations — such as failure to yield right-of-way, following too closely, illegal speed and failure to stay in proper lane.

The possibility of dozing at the wheel is increased substantially in the cases of those drivers who attempt long-distance trips after completing a full day's work. This danger is especially likely to prevail on Friday nights, when a worker has completed his week's job requirements and is eager to be on his way in a hurry to a faraway destination for the weekend.

A recent Oklahoma survey found that in 228 serious accidents, 104 were caused by "sleepers." The average driver's age was 34. Midnight to 8 a.m. was the worst time for dozing. Because the Turner turnpike in Oklahoma is only 88 miles long, it can be traveled at legal speed in one hour, 22 minutes. The questions that safety authorities are raising is this: What was the driver doing in the 12 to 18 hours before reaching the turnpike? Was he properly rested, or was he attempting to make a long drive after putting in a full day's work?

This problem will grow in importance here in Wisconsin as more miles of the interstate highway system are opened to public use. For this reason, we must put forth more effort in reminding the motoring public that a driver should be properly rested before undertaking a long trip. Also, his car should be properly serviced before a long trip, since we have found that one of the major services of patrol officers on the I-S highways is to render assistance to disabled motorists.

Looking Backward

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of June 30, 1860.

The news of the Democratic nomination of Douglas was received here at 4:30 a.m. Sunday last by express from Oshkosh.

On Monday afternoon a delegation from Dale, accompanied by the Dale "Baby Waker" and band, arrived in town. The boys went to work in good earnest and at night we had one of the most enthusiastic demonstrations ever got up in any town of our size on so short a notice.

A huge bonfire was kindled at the corner of College avenue and Appleton street, and at an early hour of the evening the music of life and drums and the cannon's loud roar soon gathered a great crowd.

At half past eight, a very large torchlight procession was formed, the most brilliant affair of the kind ever seen here, and marched down College avenue and through the town. The procession was twice as long as expected and every heart beat exultantly for Democracy and Douglas.

A handsome portrait of the Little Giant, encircled with a rich wreath of flowers by the fair hands of Appleton ladies, graced the house of Mr. Goff, on Oneida street, and elicited an outburst of cheers as the procession passed by. Rounds upon rounds of cheers were given every few minutes as the procession moved on.

In the spacious hall of Adkins' Stone Block, the assemblage was organized by the election of the following officers: S. Ryan, Jr., Appleton, president; W. H. P. Bogan, Grand Chute. Stephen Balliet, Dale, John Versteegen, Kaukauna, and Franklin Proctor, Freedom, vice presidents; J. W. Carhart, Jr., Appleton, secretary.

Wednesday, June 26, 1935

The administration bill to plug the income tax loopholes and to tax utilities, chain stores, estates and gifts to obtain approximately $10,000,000 with which to balance Wisconsin's budget for the next biennium was passed by the assembly, immediately after it passed the works bill. The tax measure was immediately sent to the senate.

Appleton's first Walgreen drug store, the largest in Wisconsin, was to open at 7 o'clock Saturday morning in the Insurance building. M. N. Kondziella was to manage the store and his assistant was to be Edward Bruner, formerly of Appleton.

Miss Dorothy Fenton, immediate past president of Appleton Business and Professional Women's club, was admitted formally into the Past Presidents' club of the organization at a meeting at the home of Mrs. R. N. Clapp, Appleton.

A new type of organ, popularly known as the radio organ, was installed at St. Margaret Mary church, Neenah. The instrument makes use of vibrating discs and radio tubes in place of pipes. It was a recent invention.

Under the Capitol Dome

Nusbaum's Group Saves State Money

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — There is no ranking officer in the state capitol about whom there is more curiosity, and who is more closely watched, than young Joe E. Nusbaum, the head of the powerful new department of administration which Gov. Nelson calls the most important achievement of his first term.

Wyngaard

It is something of an incongruity that Nusbaum is destined to be one of the chief issues in the gubernatorial campaign this year, for he is a man of disarming quiet demeanor and modesty. The reason why he is going to figure in the campaign is in part due to the sweeping powers of his office, and in part due to the strong-minded way he has used them to date.

The capitol has tended to reserve judgment on this man who is Nelson's most important lieutenant. Some of the bureaucrats who have grown accustomed to their niches are annoyed because he has upset some of the treasured patterns of life and operations. Some of the Republican senators are sore because they have discovered he has powers they didn't know they were granting when they passed the act setting up his agency. Some other observers are skeptical because Nusbaum and his young colleagues sometimes appeared over-eager to make a splash — in time to be of some use to the governor's oratorical supply dump during the reelection campaign.

THE FIRST REPORT

Some basis of judgment of this new leader and his new department is offered in his first report just published.

For the casually interested man on the street it is pretty dull stuff. It deals for the most part with the housekeeping details of state administrative operations. But these are important, in a fiscal sense. The housekeeping amounts to tidy amounts, in individual tax terms. As a startling example, it was shown the other day that the state spends a cool $2,000,000 annually merely for the physical production of printed materials — not to mention the hundreds of thousands of additional dollars represented in writing costs, planning, mailing, etc.

The striking impression that is gained from a perusal of this report, by the typical taxpayer with a prudent regard for the use of the tax payments he sends to the state treasury, is that so many of these changes and reforms are so eminently simple and obvious.

The state is going to buy gasoline for its police cars at wholesale rather than retail, at a savings of thousands. It is going to get the benefit of the interest earnings of federal tax deductions from state employee wages that formerly went to the banks that handle state deposits. An advisory committee has recommended, and the agency is about to order a consolidated machine data processing service to replace numbers of separate agency processing divisions that were working at less than full efficiency. A centralized duplicating service is being organized to serve all agencies.

The reader finds himself wondering: what is so ingenious about these things, and why were they not done a long time ago?

THE OBVIOUS

Surely a business manager of a private enterprise would be fired if he couldn't install such plainly useful and economical ways of doing business. If this is the way to make a reputation in the state government, the skeptical might say, it is a simple matter, indeed. Or, to borrow an Oconto county colloquialism, it is like shooting fish in a barrel.

But with all that said, there is something else that needs to be said.

Obvious as such things may seem, once they are noted, elementary as they may appear to anyone with the slightest acquaintance with business management (including this unlettered bystander) the fact is that they were not done until this new department was formed and Nusbaum turned up.

There may be — and almost surely will be — some innovations that will become legitimate points of dispute, and possibly some errors of judgment on the part of Nusbaum's young men. But his first report will very likely turn out to be a handy campaign document nonetheless. In the hands of a Republican administration there would be no hesitation.

Services May Get Pill Size Religion Kit

From The Charlotte News

Is there no end to man's attempt to cut the eternal verities down to size for modern living?

The latest example is a "religion kit" for navy submariners. It contains tape recorded hymns, prepared sermons, a collapsible and reversible crucifix (without the figure of Christ for Protestants, with, for Catholics), portable candlesticks, altar cloths and the like. It's all fitted into a case 22 by 15 inches in size and saves the navy the trouble of making room for the real thing in the form of a five-foot ten-inch, 175-pound chaplain.

What's more, a new kit is being developed that is only about half the size of the present one. At this rate, by 1984, the armed forces will no doubt have reduced religion to handy tablet size.

Instant worship. Just add water and serve.

Work for the Devil

A report on the Kenya Mau Mau uprising, never really thoroughly quelled, has been made by Frank Corfield, former governor of Khartoum Province, after a study of more than two years. Mr. Corfield states that "the failure of the Government of Kenya" to appreciate the basic requirement of good government to maintain law and order "was the basic cause of the outbreak." Like the Nazi and Communist movements, the Mau Maus used their very liberty to claw their way to power.

The Mau Mau, under the direction of Moscow trained Jomo Kenyatta, used terrorism and depravity to recruit followers. The rituals of traditional tribal religions as well as the Christian faith were perverted in such hideous, almost unprintable ways to render the participants helpless to avoid complete obedience. After taking part in the horrible orgies, they had no place else to go and could be counted upon to murder or torture wives or children upon order. Like those who operated the gas chambers in Germany or conduct interrogations in Red China, the Mau Mau recruits eventually developed a realization of absolute sin. One may wonder whether it was this hopelessness which made Eichmann so easy to capture.

The Mau Mau methods and reasons were understood and described in two novels, Robert Ruark's Something of Value, dealing explicitly with Kenya, and The Tribe Which Lost Its Head, by Nicolas Montsarat, a story of a mythical African colony. The perversions of true religion and honest nationalism or desire for independence were used to reach the ends envisioned by the power-mad leaders. This really was medieval witchcraft with African overtones.

The Corfield report warns that "there is little doubt that perhaps not unreasonable African governments will evolve, although they are likely to bear little resemblance to a democracy as we know it for some time to come. But the ferment of freedom has been let loose and this will no doubt insure that eventually the forms of government to be evolved in these countries will have to take a reasonable account of individual liberty."

Mr. Corfield is optimistic. The signs in independent Ghana of the exploitation of the government by Communist interests is a warning. There is nothing remotely resembling dignity or freedom of the individual in the Mau Mau program. The religious approach and the use of mankind's worst appetites and then his sense of absolute sin are amazingly alike in the Fascist and Communist regimes around the world as well as among extreme nationalist fanatics in Africa.

Champion of Liberty

When postage of one country is not acceptable to another, the latter is supposed to notify the nation of origin under the Universal Postal Agreement. But authorities in Czechoslovakia so far have been shy about doing so. They simply send back undelivered letters from the United States which bear the stamp honoring Thomas G. Masaryk.

Masaryk, the president of the Czechoslovakian Republic from its start in 1918 until 1935, when it only had a few years before dissolution, is honored in the "Champions of Liberty" commemorative series. When the stamp was issued, Postmaster Gen. Arthur Summerfield said, "these stamps . . . will mark not only the strong friendship between the peoples but their common aspirations for freedom."

But since the end of World war II, the adoption of a new constitution and the taking over of the entire nation by the Communists, the Czechs have shown little aspiration for freedom. Of all the Russian satellites, Czechoslovakia is supposed to be the most communized. If there are underground movements, there is little rumble of them in the rest of the world. From the outside it appears that the freedom loving Czechs, so determined in opposing the oppressive Nazi rule and the slicing up of their country at Munich, have been worn down by the years of war and oppression.

But the very fact that the Czech government has made no loud noise about Masaryk indicates there must be a lot of people in the nation who do him honor and the cause for which he lived and died. A people who have lived with liberty do not forget so easily.

Aw-Heck!

The purists are now delving even into the activities of the birds.

Pete is a parrot now many years younger than his 65-year-old owner who claims Pete won't talk to him. But a widow who must pass Pete's perch in front of his master's house every day to and from her place of work complains that Pete uses such "vile and abusive" language that she has to make a 3-block detour to avoid hearing him.

Brought into a Brooklyn court along with his master, Pete sat silently for two hours while everyone eagerly waited for him to speak. Not even a mild "gosh darn" despite the fact that he wasn't getting any crackers.

Pete and his master have to come back for trial. But maybe the court ought to have a thorough pre-sentence investigation. Did Pete know the lady in question before? Would he have any reason to curse her? If so, is it illegal?

This thing could go even to the Supreme Court. If a bird can be charged with disorderly conduct shouldn't his rights to free speech be constitutionally upheld?

'Tons of People' May Soon Be Common Phrase

From The San Diego Union

The other day a scientist estimated that there are some 10 million tons of people in the United States. The figure actually may be higher, making allowances for those who fib a bit about their weight.

These statistics, of course, are useful for scientific measuring sticks. But as yet, they have not crept into the social framework. Yet there may come a time when a hostess does not invite 20 persons to a party but 14 tons of humanity. Or perhaps packaged food labels may read: "Adequate to serve 700 pounds" or a family of four.

Man Defends Sex Discussion

Milwaukee Instructor Testifies Subject Is Vital to Teenager

Milwaukee — A suspended high school teacher testified Tuesday night that he permitted discussions of sex in his classes because "sex is so important to the teenager and he wants to understand it."

Edwin M. Wasilewski, 34, who was suspended from Boys Tech for discussing sex in his classrooms, appeared before the school board to defend his actions. The board is conducting a public hearing on the suspension by Wasilewski's principal, Gilbert J. Jautz.

Wasilewski contended that he was not aware of any "statement prohibiting the teaching of sex" in the schools and added that the classroom discussions arose from questions asked by students except "on one occasion."

Mother Testifies
Mrs. Dorothy Kosenke, a mother of one of Wasilewski's students, testified that she had met the teacher and he had asked her if she objected to such discussions.

Mrs. Kosenke said she replied she "was very happy about it," adding that she understood that the discussions were very serious.

Another mother, Mrs. Frances A. Russell, said her son reported about a debate on abortion that took place in Wasilewski's classroom.

She said she agreed "it was a good thing" so that the students would know "both sides of the subject."

Submarines Seen as War Deterrent

The navy's fleet of submarines, armed with long-range Polaris missiles, was cited as a major deterrent to nuclear war, by a noon Optimist club speaker Monday.

Lt. Cmdr. James Foxgrover, navy pilot and recent graduate of the naval war school, Newport, R. I., told Optimists that the Polaris missile network has the advantage of concealment, invulnerability and assured strike-back capability.

Foxgrover, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Foxgrover, 715 W. Summer street, added that the submarine system and navy aircraft carriers have freed the U.S. from the necessity of posting sizeable forces near all the world's potential trouble spots.

He added that the American people should be awakened from their complacency to the fact that the U.S. and Sino-Soviet countries are engaged in a power struggle in Europe and Asia with the non-committed countries of the world as the prize.

A continuing communist probe of these countries means the United States has to be on hand to act in the event of a limited war, Foxgrover said.

2 Tots Drown After Car Rolls Into Water

Phillipsburg, Kan. — Sam Fain of Hays, Kan., unhitched a camping trailer and started to make camp beside the Kirwin reservoir last night.

His car, unnoticed, rolled 60 feet down a slope and plunged into 30 feet of water. Fain's children, Lee, 4, and Sherry, 12, drowned in the car.

Law Requiring Iron Sewers Is Not Valid

Madison — A rule requiring all new sewer lines in Milwaukee county residential areas to be built with cast iron pipe was declared invalid Tuesday by the Wisconsin Supreme court.

The rule was adopted by city and county sewage authorities in an attempt to reduce ground water seepage into Milwaukee sewers.

Five makers of fiber sewer pipe obtained an injunction to block enforcement of the rule. This type pipe has been used in Wisconsin since 1945. The firms include McGraw-Edison company, which has a plant at Barton, Wis.

Justice John Martin, in upholding the lower court decision, said failure of the rule to provide for other types of pipe made it unconstitutional.

Other Wisconsin cities with sewers to be constructed of cast iron pipe are Green Bay, Oshkosh, Sheboygan, Janesville, La Crosse, Eau Claire, Stevens Point and Beloit.

Productivity Has Great Economic Growth Role

Important Factor Is Commonly Neglected on Political Debates

BY SAM DAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

New York — How much a man produces in one hour of work plays a big part in the economic growth of the nation.

It also bears on such things as how big or small profits will be, whether prices will rise, fall or stay steady and the supply of goods for consumers to buy.

Productivity, as man-hour output is called, took a spurt last year up 4 per cent over the year before, seems to be slowing its upward pace this year and has had an average growth of around 2 per cent a year since 1947.

Rarely Mentioned
It is rarely mentioned in the political debate over the rate of economic growth—a debate which Vice President Nixon says sometimes sounds like a parlor game he calls Growthmanship.

Many of his opponents say the concern over the growth rate is anything but a game, but essential to American welfare, and a prime factor in what they see as the economic race with the communist bloc.

The politicians are mostly interested in the total output of goods and services. Those who want faster growth see it as a means to upon motion of Dist. Atty. George Greish, who cited a "misunderstanding."

A charge of operating in excess of Wisconsin authority against the Schnabl brothers, route 1, Black Creek, was dismissed by the court for lack of evidence.

ward more jobs, more goods and services for Americans to enjoy, more income for taxes the U.S. treasury could use in promoting still more growth, and more goods to export to markets the Russians might covet.

Production Rise
Productivity rises as workers acquire more skill or use more efficient production methods, or as management installs mechanization or automation to reduce the number of workers (and thus man-hours) needed to turn out a piece of work.

As skills rise so do wages usually, and the greater productivity means greater profits or lower prices, or both.

The higher income of workers helps increase demand for goods and services. Greater profits can both increase the income of stockholders and furnish management with the funds for expansion of output. And lower prices could increase demand.

Thus productivity plays its role in economic growth by increasing demand and providing the withdrawal for building more plants (hiring more workers) and for ordering more equipment (making more work for the manufacturers of machinery and tools).

The increase in productivity last year has spurred some labor leaders to ask that labor get a bigger share through higher wages.

What they fear is a slowdown this year in productivity growth is causing some companies to list it as one cause for an expected slowdown in the rate of increase in earnings.

Two Extremely Different Men Hold Top Jobs in Free Congo

Premier Is Ex-Convict, President
Is Ex-Priest—Both are Fighters

Brussels, Belgium — (AP) — chief of the National Congolese Movement, won the pre-leadership in the Belgian Conmiership — the executive go are teaming up in the top jobs when that big African territory gains independence.
The premiership goes to Patrice Lumumba, 34, and the presidency to Joseph Kas-avubu, 42. They are both firm nationalists, but dissimilar in physical appearance and outlook.
Lumumba, a shrewd, fiery goateed member of the Batetela tribes, widely spread throughout the Congo, which were described by an early Belgian explorer as "renowned for their bravery, tall and handsome."

Like many African leaders, Lumumba found jails were just below Stanley falls, he way stations on his road to prominence.

A $100-a-month clerk for 11 years at the postoffice of Stanleyville, on the Congo river,
just below Stanley falls, he was sentenced in 1956 to two years imprisonment for embezzlement. Emerging, he worked briefly for a brewery, then quit to devote himself fully to politics.

Late last year he was jailed briefly by a Stanleyville court for causing riots during an NCM congress.

Lumumba is often unpredictable.
A few years ago, he appeared with a gang of demonstrators brandishing signs reading:

"Down with the minister of colonies, down with the general governor: The Congo of the Bula Matari (the white chief) is dead."

Now he asks Africans to respect white persons and properties and promises friendship to Belgium and the Belgians.

Europeans who know him well say Lumumba will accept assistance, financial or otherwise, from anyone he sees fit, including communists.

But they must expect little from him in return.

He is a nationalist first of all.

Here's Kasavubu
Kasavubu is short, bulky and so quiet he has a reputation as a mystery man.
He is married and has seven children.

Born in 1917 in the lower Congo area of Mayumbe, not far from the Congo river's mouth on the Atlantic, Kas-avubu is a descendant of Chinese coolies imported to build the Matadi-Leopoldville railway in the late 1880's.

He studied for the Roman Catholic priesthood near Lula-bour in the Kasai province, but soon decided the white cotton robes of the African clergy were not for him.

He got a job in 1942 as a clerk in the Leopoldville government offices, then created the Abako cultural movement of lower Congo Africans which became the first important Congolese political party.

His aim at one time was to separate the lower Congo province from the rest of the territory as his own kingdom.

Kasavubu was the first African leader to raise his voice against Belgian rule. He was the first to demand a constitutional assembly to prepare for independence for the Congo, a territory of 904,757 square miles and a population of 13 1/2 million.

Belgian authorities said Kas-avubu planned an attempt to oust the Belgian government by force in early 1959, but dynamite he had prepared exploded prematurely.

Lawrence Says

Johnson and Kennedy Seem To Lead Field

Democrats in Struggle for Congress Support

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — There's a battle going on behind the scenes that could decide who gets the Democratic presidential nomination.

The public generally isn't aware of the struggle. The results are not always visible to the naked eye.

Lawrence

But the tacticians working vigorously in behalf of Sens. John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson are playing their cards with all the resourcefulness known to politicians.

Lyndon Johnson, as majority leader of the senate for several years, has built up personal and political relationships with nearly every senator on the Democratic side. They mean strength for the Texas senator in the east, the middle west and west, as well as in the south.

Also, in the house of representatives is speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, who is working intensively for Sen. Johnson's candidacy.

The influence of a speaker of the house can reach into almost every congressional district represented by a Democrat. Speaker Rayburn can add thereto the benefit of friendships with some 46 men who now are United States senators but who used to serve under him in the house.

Powerful Leverage

This is a powerful leverage. Gov. Williams of Michigan, Democrat, only last Sunday complained that Sen. Johnson was maneuvering for passage or delay of medical-care legislation in the senate in order to secure cooperation from certain Democratic state delegations. This has been indignantly denied by Sen. Johnson himself. It is significant that the Michigan governor made the complaint at all. It shows that the Lyndon Johnson strength is beginning to penetrate the state organizations supposed to be for Sen. Kennedy.

On the opposite side of the political arena, the Kennedy forces are lined up. These comprise organizations in every state. There are in them members of congress who may be outwardly friendly to the Massachusetts senator, but privately many may be flirting with the Johnson camp.

In New York state, Carmine de Sapio, Tammany leader, who is pledged publicly to support the Kennedy banner, says significantly that Mayor Wagner's name has not been withdrawn as a possible nominee for the vice presidency. It is obviously impractical for the Democratic ticket to be "Kennedy and Wagner." Both are Catholics and both come from the east.

So it must be that Mayor Wagner's name is being advanced as a possible running mate for Sen. Lyndon Johnson. To put someone who is a northerner and a Catholic on the Johnson ticket is politically logical.

The Kennedy strategists have the benefit of an early start and plenty of money.

This doesn't mean improper use of campaign funds, but merely money for publicity and for scouts who go from state to state to win the regular organization men to a candidate's side. The Kennedy organization is one of the most extensive the nation has ever seen in a pre-convention contest in the Democratic party. Activity of this kind is usually observed in the Republican ranks.

It becomes a struggle between the veterans in congress who favor Sen. Johnson and those factions of the local organizations which are headed by governors friendly to the Massachusetts senator.

No other candidate appears today to have a chance. If Sen. Kennedy doesn't make it in three ballots, the nomination would naturally go to the senate's majority leader. This correspondent still believes that Sen. Kennedy is ahead and has the momentum to come close to winning on the second ballot, but that the ground swell for Lyndon Johnson has taken on a new significance.

More and more state leaders are saying privately that they believe the country will be much more likely to elect a man with the maturity and legislative experience of Sen. Lyndon Johnson. As for a Johnson - Kennedy ticket—well, that's the one the Democratic politicians today will tell you would be a real vote-getter as against a Nixon-Lodge ticket on the Republican side.

Senate Votes Equal TV Time For Aspirants

Washington — The senate has decided to let the radio-TV broadcasters donate equal time voluntarily to Democratic and Republican candidates for president and vice president this year.

The senate has passed a resolution to that effect, and sent it to the house. It had the effect of killing, at least for the time being, a move to require the networks by law to give the time. The networks had bitterly opposed any mandatory law, and said they'd be glad to provide voluntarily prime evening hours for political debate for major party candidates.

Broadcasting officials had asked congress to change present Federal Communications commission regulations, which say that if free time is provided for one candidate, it must be given to all candidates, no matter how minor or offbeat.

The networks said if they had to give equal time to a dozen splinter parties, they would be forced to give no time to any party. The senate resolution, which now goes to the house for action, exempted the industry from the present FCC rule for this year's campaign.

The form of this fall's political presentations was left open. Sen. John Pastore (D-R.I.), sponsor of the resolution, said congress should rely on the broadcasters' assurance of an acceptable method.

Seeks State Support For Wildlife Exhibits

Resort Industry Leader Plugs Plan For Series of Zoological Gardens

Three Lakes — One of the state's best known resort industry leaders is making some progress in persuading the state of the value of a series of zoological gardens in which Wisconsin wild animals in their natural condition could be exhibited to hundreds of thousands of summertime visitors.

Carl Marty, proprietor of a resort hotel here and an ardent outdoorsman, proposed such a measure to the last legislature, which referred it to an interim committee for examination. He outlined his plan at a recent session of the legislative group here.

Marty said the conservation department should establish one or two pilot projects, at small expense, to test his idea.

Retired Warden — A retired conservation warden could be employed to supervise the exhibit during the warm weather months, he said.

He proposed the use of a couple of acres of land, in which "orphaned" deer, fox, raccoons and other species could be kept, for the instruction of children and the delight of adult tourists.

Marty drew on his own experience at his resort here, where for many years he has encouraged wild animals and has succeeded virtually in taming some of them. More than 20,000 visitors a year come to see the wilderness creatures, he said, and the photographic results have become valuable in promoting the tourist attractions of all of northeastern Wisconsin, he claimed.

Many Animals — Animals are easily acquired. Each year dozens of orphaned young deer, foxes and other animals are brought to his place for care, he reported. He said there may also be a value in such work for the state conservation department, which can collect data on the characteristics and habits of wild creatures otherwise not available.

That the idea may be catching on among state game administrators was indicated when Frank King of the state game division told the legislators he has drawn up three alternative methods of providing the exhibits that Martyn has advocated.

The committee will file a

Milk Prices Hiked In Chicago, but Not in Fox Cities

Milk prices in Chicago will go up a half-cent a quart Friday, according to an Associated Press release today. A check of Fox Cities dairies shows that no price increase is being considered here, although one dairy spokesman said that a rise in the Chicago market often is reflected later in this area.

Milk sells from 20 to 22 cents a quart and 41 or 42 cents a half-gallon in Fox Cities stores, with home delivery about two cents higher. In contrast, present Chicago retail milk prices are 24 cents a quart in chain groceries, 27 cents in neighborhood stores and two cents more a quart for home delivery.

Wisconsin dairy farmers supply a major portion of the bottling milk for the Chicago market. Higher farm and labor costs are credited as the cause of the Chicago area price hike.

AHS Class of 1930 Gives Check to Library

The Appleton High school library has received a gift of $237.47 from the class of 1930 that will be used to purchase special books.

Arthur J. Roemer, chairman of the class of 1930 reunion, presented the check to the library. The books will be marked with a gift book plate, Miss Ethelwyn Baerwaldt, librarian, said.

Says Union Demands Halt Updating

Modernization, including installation of diesel power, of the nation's railroads in the postwar years could not have taken place if the railroads agreed to a union demand that no position covered by labor contracts could be abolished without union consent.

This was one of the conclusions of Ben W. Heineman, chairman of the Chicago and North Western Railway company, testifying before a subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee in support of a bill introduced by Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois to amend the Norris-LaGuardia act, National Labor Relations act and Railway Labor act.

Purpose of the bill is to overcome the effect of a recent supreme court 5 to 4 decision interpreting the union demand as a negotiable issue under the terms of the Norris-LaGuardia act. The bill would amend all three acts by spelling out that "working conditions" and "conditions of employment" would not

Mikoyan Won't Reveal Presidential Choice

Oaks — Anastas I. Mikoyan said today if Russia openly supported a U.S. presidential candidate it would cost him the race. A western newsmen asked the Soviet first deputy premier at a news conference if he had any preference in the American election. "It is not my job to say anything about this," Mikoyan replied. "and if I had a preference, I would not say so. A man who got Russian support would not be elected."

Republican Campaign Offensive Will Spotlight Tax Revision

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — The Republican Democratic state administra- The reference was to the elections this year huddled "irresponsible and inconsis- purposes adopted by the Democratic state convention in Milwaukee last weekend.

Philip Kuehn of Milwaukee, uncontested aspirant for the Republican nomination for governor, said he believes the equivocal position of the Democrats on the central issue of state taxation and finance provides his best opportunity in appeals to the electorate this summer and fall.
"Ducked the Issue"
He claimed that the Democrats have evaded the broad tax reform issue which Gov. Nelson raised when he set up his blue ribbon tax revision advisory commission, and scoffed that the Democrats have offered a pledge of tax relief but have ducked the issue of how it shall be achieved.
Kuehn has decided — apparently with the approval of his running-mates and GOP organization advisors — to make property tax reduction a major theme of his own drive. He says he is favor-ors a form of sales taxation — but only as it is related to property tax relief and specifically as a means to achieve that end.

The Republicans believe that some of the preliminary reports of the governor's non-partisan advisory commission have given them ammunition for a campaign keyed to property tax worries.
Curious Onlookers
The commission has repeatedly pointed to the excessive burdens of real and personal property taxpayers, has demanded reduction in the tax cost of shelter, and has said that it wants a broadly based system of state revenues to permit tax revision. That aim is echoed in the new Republican state platform on which Kuehn will run.
Kuehn met here with other

J. Jasper.
For an hour Tuesday they stood on the statehouse steps for purposes of making campaign photographs, while office-holders of the capitol now peered curiously from state department office windows.

Plan to Stump State
Jasper has outlined a plan for a dramatic launching of the campaign that would have five members of the ticket travel over Wisconsin for a fortnight or more in a community bus, accompanied by legislative chieftains, local candidates and local legislative representatives.
The plan appeared to get the approval of the campaigners. Only Kuehn thus far has traveled extensively. The oth-in May, are Warren P.

Keep Cool

Tips Help Owner Get Most From Conditioner

To get the most out of your air conditioner, there are a few simple, timely tips which should be observed:

Keep shades or Venetian blinds down and curtains drawn on windows where the sun strikes. Glass is an excellent heat conductor and should be shielded. And, of course, keep sunny windows closed.

Start the air conditioner before you need it. It takes longer to cool a room once furniture, rugs and drapes have absorbed heat.

Don't switch your air conditioner on and off constantly. Set the thermostat and let it run at the proper pace. On-and-off operation results in a "cool loss" and puts an added strain on your wiring.

Read the directions for your model carefully to make special features.

Be sure you are using it properly, taking advantage of all its features.

Keep the area in front of the conditioner clear so that air can circulate freely.

Check the controls regularly; children sometimes move them or they are moved in cleaning.

The filter should be cleaned at least once a season or more often in particularly dirty atmosphere.

Has a circuit fuse blown?

Is plug firmly set in the outlet?

Keeping a simple check list like this on hand can assure you that you are getting the best out of your room air conditioner, and at a budget price.

Air Conditioners Easily Installed When Remodeling

Air conditioning is a "natural" for families who plan to remodel their homes.

Here are some reasons for considering air conditioning in your remodeling plans:

Remodeling means modernizing, and a modern house should be a comfortable one in all seasons of the year.

Installing a central air conditioning system usually is easier and less expensive if it is done during remodeling operations. Ducts, wiring and insulation can be more easily installed.

Frequently a remodeling operation calls for a new heating plant. When this is the case, a compact combination heating-cooling unit can be installed, generally at a savings to the homeowner.

And the remodeling phase is an excellent time to have the entire house insulated with mineral wool.

A further advantage of installing air conditioning during the remodeling operation is that its cost almost always can be included in financing for the entire project.

Humidity Important

Consideration of relative humidity is important. For instance, we are as comfortable at 82 degrees and 40 per cent relative humidity as we are at 78 degrees and 60 per cent relative humidity.

Cool Air Helps Night Workers Sleep in Daytime

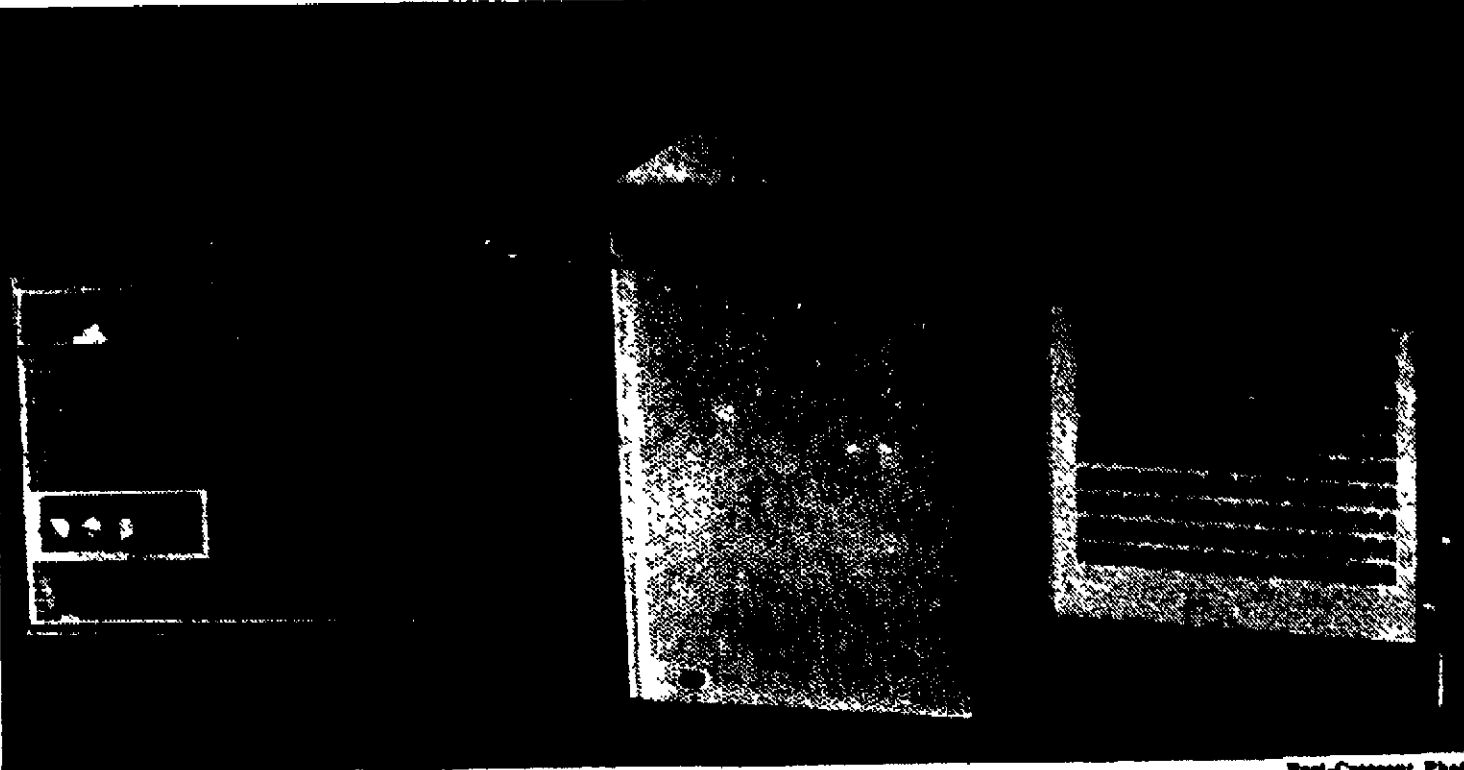

Shakespeare said "sleep knits up the ravelled sleeve of care." Nothing is more important to your everyday welfare than good, restful sleep. It puts us in shape for the business cares of the day.

Except for the blistering heat of mid-summer, most of us do all right, but not the man who works nights and has to sleep during the daytime.

Air conditioning officials estimate there are six million night workers, who must get their sleep during the day.

Problems of daytime sleeping, they point out, can be overcome by the use of air conditioners.

The units allow you to close the window tight, shutting out bothersome noises and providing cool, clean and comfortable air. The air conditioner also provides gentle circulation, removes excess moisture and pumps out stale air.

New House Can be Constructed With Air Conditioning in Mind

Central Cooling System, Shading Devices, Insulated Walls, Roof Help Reduce Costs

Thinking of air conditioning as much as all the other heat the house cooling system has to remove. It may run higher than 250,000 Btu's on the roof of a 1000 square foot home in a single hour.

All factors being equal, a flat roof will let 25 per cent to 50 per cent more of the sun's heat into the house than a pitched roof.

Insulation, attic ventilation and reflective paint properly applied can reduce this heat load up to 50 per cent and should be used where summer cooling is being considered and conditions permit.

Insulate Walls

WALLS—Direct sunshine on walls is of less concern than it is on the roof since it can never shine directly on more than one full wall at a time or obliquely on more than two.

Adequate wall insulation, however, is valuable in lowering the transfer of heat through the structure.

A minimum of 1-inch insulation either of the loose or rigid type, or its equivalent, should be considered for the walls of any home being air conditioned.

FLOORS—The ground and area under most floors is usually cooler than inside house temperatures which is of slight advantage in the summer. However, cold floors in the winter are objectionable and consideration should be given to heating them or the space underneath them, and to insulating against the cold.

All slab and crawl space type homes should have some kind of vapor barrier to prevent moisture problem.

SHADING—Devices such as awnings, large roof overhangs and sun screens cut your summer cooling load enough to justify the use of smaller cooling equipment, permitting a savings in your original investment and operating cost every day the equipment is used.

Roof Gets Hot

ROOF—The total amount of sun heat that pours down on a roof during a clear summer day may be two or three times

Air Conditioning Is Growing Trend In Automobiles

The swing to air-conditioning cars during the next few years will parallel or even surpass the rate of gains shown by air-conditional residential units, according to "Koldfax," the official publication of The Air-Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute.

From a start of about 40,000 automobile units installed in 1953, the automobile air-conditioning business has grown to an estimated 250,000 to 300,000 cooled cars in 1956, and 350,000 or 400,000 in 1957.

The forecast for 1961 is that sales will go above two million units, as mass production operations bring on anticipated drop in installed cost — both for factory-installed and separately-purchased field kits. Present systems sell for $300 to $600, installed.

Installation Key in Air Conditioning

Wise to Consult Contractor Familiar With Home Comfort

In the case of air conditioning, as with all mechanical equipment, installation is an important factor.

No equipment can deliver the service built into it unless it is properly installed.

The knowledge and skill of the heating and cooling contractor is the priceless ingredient in every air conditioning installation authorities say. Only if this ingredient is properly utilized can the homeowner feel confident that his costs of operation will be reasonable and his living comfort at its maximum.

Consult Contractor

It is always wise to consult a competent contractor who knows home comfort and understands how this equipment should be installed. The best heating men often make the best cooling men because they have had long experience in providing climate control for homes.

Installation of heating equipment is more difficult than that of cooling because of the greater temperature differentials involved.

On the other hand, cooling also presents its problems because many persons are sensitive to cold drafts in the summer. The distribution of air in a cooling system is far more important than in heating.

Air Conditioners Give Year-Round Climate Control

Expect 20 Million Americans Will be Enjoying Benefits Of Central Cooling by 1965

"The era of year-round conditioning is easily accomplished the same way as in basementless homes. You can choose a horizontal or vertical coil, depending on the furnace, and hook it up to an air-cooled condensing unit, or install an efficient water-cooled air conditioner.

Older Models

However, if you have an older-type heating plant, air conditioning experts offer several remedies.

One way is to replace the old, inefficient coal or conversion burner unit with a new compact vertical furnace and cooling coil. Ductwork is usually adequate, but if you wish you can recess ductwork making your basement more usable.

Another possibility is to install a new horizontal ceiling-mounted furnace and horizontal cooling coil, taking up no usable floor space.

Either way, you'll enjoy healthful, dependable heating and cooling at the flick of a finger.

Combination Unit

If yours is one of the many homes using "wet heat," or radiant heat in the floor, you can switch to complete conditioning with a combination cooling coil-blower unit and a remote air-cooled condensing unit hooked up to minimum duct system.

This installation can be located in the attic, basement crawlspace, or in a furred down hall ceiling of your home, to suit your individual air conditioning needs.

To round out your comfort picture, versatile all-in-one units are available to provide cooling, dehumidification, heating and circulation of filter-pure air from a single compact cabinet.

These units may be installed in new homes or to replace worn-out warm-air heating systems using the same ductwork. They are available as water-cooled models, which also are adaptable for air-cooled installation.

Low Cost Units

One big reason spurring the rapid rise in complete home conditioning is the development of low-cost units that fit any type of heating system.

Thus, whether your home is spanning new or of older vintage, you can choose from an infinite array of air conditioning equipment tailor-made to solve any special problems.

Here, according to engineers, are some of the ways to add complete year-round comfort:

If your home is without basement and employs a perimeter or overhead heating system, conversion to all-season conditioning is fairly simple and relatively economical since existing ductwork is usually adequate to handle cooling.

Cooling Coil

All it takes is the addition of a cooling coil to your vertical furnace, hooked up to an outside air cooled condensing unit which removes heat from your home. You also have a choice of water cooled models.

For attic and crawl space using horizontal heating systems in basementless homes, all you add is a horizontal cooling coil in ductwork on the discharge end of the furnace, hooked up to an outside air cooled condensing unit that uses no water.

If you have an efficient vertical hiboy or lowboy furnace in the basement, year-round

Combined Capacity Enough to Service 600 Average Homes.

La Crosse — About 1,200 tons of Trane refrigeration equipment will be used to air-condition the unique new public auditorium being built in Pittsburgh.

It is believed that the roof of this circular auditorium will constitute the largest dome ever built. It is certainly the largest movable dome ever designed.

The mammoth dome roof, some 415 feet in diameter and 136 feet high, makes possible a spectacular open air stadium that can be converted into a weatherproof, air conditioned auditorium in 2½ minutes.

Eight Sections

The stainless steel-sheathed dome is divided into eight sections. Two of these are stationary and six are movable. When the roof is retracted, the six movable sections will glide one over the other on top of the two fixed sections to open the huge arena to the skies. It can be closed at the press of a button in increments of weather and the man-made weather turned on.

All public spaces in the auditorium will be air conditioned. While the dome of the auditorium rises above the ground as high as a 12-story building, most of this is air space. There are three working floors to the structure. The lowest level contains 30,000 square feet of exhibition area, plus two meeting rooms and the main air conditioning mechanical equipment room. The second level will contain the main entrances and box offices, several private offices and three meeting rooms. The top level will have seats on one side and a control booth on the other.

Separate Controls

The air conditioning system is to be a high pressure heating, ventilating and cooling system. It is designed so that only the portion of the building being occupied will be supplied with conditioned air.

Controls for the air conditioning system are in the mechanical equipment room on the first level. The engineer on watch will be able to obtain temperature readings at six points in the auditorium, six points in the exhibit area, one point in each of the meeting rooms, and make necessary adjustments by moving switches on the supervisory data control center.

The New Circular Public auditorium being built in Pittsburgh will have the largest movable dome ever designed. The retractable dome roof, 415 feet in diameter and 136 feet high, makes possible an open air stadium that can be converted into a weather-proof, air conditioned auditorium in 2½ minutes. The Trane Company, La Crosse, will supply four refrigeration machines to cool the auditorium when the dome is closed. The combined capacity of these four machines is 1,200 tons, or enough to air condition 600 average size homes.

Insulation Aids Home Cooling

Thick Layer Keeps Out Summer Heat, Helps Save Money

Families are beginning to pay closer attention to the high cost of living and to seeking ways of reducing their "fixed" living expenses.

One of these "fixed" living expenses is heating, and for modern-minded families, air conditioning.

While fuel costs depend upon geographical location, in all but a very few sections of the United States, gas is the most economical fuel.

Reduces Cost

Savings on heat and cooling can be further realized through proper insulation, with the cost of such an improvement paid for out of savings in a relatively short period.

Proof that thick insulation sharply reduces the cost of heating and air conditioning homes in all sections of the country has been established in engineering surveys.

Research engineers covered nearly 130 cities in all climate zones of the country, basing their calculations on a 1,040-square-foot sample house.

Startling Results

Results were startling. The study showed that in virtually every city thick mineral wool saved at least $100—twice that in some—in the combined wool saved at least $100—

Tiger Cat Perched in Tree Decorates Australian Issue

BY SYD KRONISH
AP Wire Services

A tiger cat perched on a limb of a tree is featured on the new 8-pence stamp issued by Australia.

The latest Australian adhesive, red brown in color, is to be used as the basic postage rate for a surface letter to most foreign countries. It is also recognized as the postage rate for a one-half ounce airmail letter to New Zealand.

The design of the new stamp was the work of Miss Eileen Mayo of Neutral Bay, New South Wales, whose designs were also used for the recently issued 1-shilling plangit and the 9-pence kangaroo stamps.

Many of the more than 70 nations issuing special stamps for the World Refugee Year have already announced the designs of their adhesives. Some are overprinting old designs, others are using the uprooted tree as the basic symbol while still others have created special items.

Two in this latter category are Iceland and Vatican City. Vatican City's set consists of the following values and designs: 60 plus 5-lire — Fra Angelico's "Flight to Egypt," 100 plus 10-1 — Massaccio's "St. Peter Giving Alms to the Poor," 300 plus 25-1 — Piero Della Francesca's "Madonna of the Mercy."

Iceland's stamps, 2.50-krona brown and 4.50-kr blue, depict a father and child. It is a reproduction of an Icelandic monument by Einar Jonsson.

Surinam has issued a set of five triangular-shaped stamps honoring the inauguration of its new Zanderij airport outside Paramaribo. This is the airport where President Eisenhower landed during his South American tour. The five stamps show the types of planes which have landed in Surinam during the past 25 years.

Japan's Relationship to China Changed; Now Fear Economic Loss

BY GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

New York — Prior to 1853 Japan was completely isolated from the rest of the world, except for an annual trading visit of a Dutch ship. In 1853, a revolution in Japanese government occurred. A parliament (the Diet) was established and Sokolsky, a cabinet responsible to the Diet came into existence. Commissions were sent to every part of the world to study how other nations conducted themselves and many of the methods employed in other countries. It is interesting to read a statement of Japan's development by Prince Ito, who was the architect of the new Japan. He begins:

"I have always been very much in favour of the adoption of the principles of western civilization by Japan, and I have been enabled to use my services in the direction of assisting the present progress and transformation in Japan's estate. In the thirty-four years during which I have held office I have always tried to help, and sometimes even to force on to the antagonistic spirits, measures necessary for the growth of modern Japan. From the beginning we realized fully how necessary it was that the Japanese people should not only adopt western methods, but should also speedily become competent to do without the aid of foreign instruction and supervision."

Growing Power

What Prince Ito accomplished after 1868 was that Japan became the first great power in modern Asia. In 1894-5, Japan challenged the authority of China, fought a war, took Formosa, became a suzerain of Korea. In 1904-5, Japan challenged Russia's development in Manchuria, fought a war with Russia, defeated Russia and by the treaty of Portsmouth gained half of Manchuria. In 1914, Japan became an ally of the anti-German nations, took from Germany her possessions in Shantung province, and by a series of political actions, partly by subverting the Anfu club, the political power in Peking, attempted to set up a suzerainty over China.

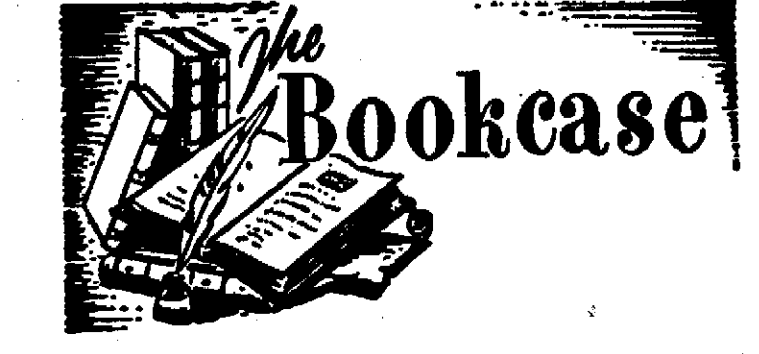

Although the United States condoned all of Japan's actions in China, there was nevertheless deep concern in this country. American missionaries and businessmen, resident in China, encouraged Chinese students in the great students strike of 1919 which closed down China tight, not a wheel moving or a shop selling any goods. The strike was to prevent the Chinese government from signing the Paris treaty. China did not sign.

Anti-Japanese boycotts were recurrent in China and these created antagonism against the United States in Japan because it was generally assumed that the United States and Americans in China instigated these anti-Japanese actions. By 1921, this situation had become so ugly that Americans who lived in the far east expected war any day. In 1922, the Washington conference was held at which many of the outstanding issues between the United States and Japan were believed to have been settled.

Japan, however, faced a very difficult situation, not unlike the present one. Japan is only 20 per cent arable. Its food supply is inadequate for so large a population (currently about 90,000,000). It is a land of unbelievable beauty but its people have to work hard to eke out a living. If Japan possessed Manchuria, it would be sufficiently supplied with food, coal and iron to provide for its needs. Therefore, Japan's policy always had it as a goal to own Manchuria.

Economic Squeeze

Japan's best market is the United States but that is an illogical market now. In a former period, Japan sold its silk crop to the United States and purchased its cotton necessities here. However, silk has become a secondary crop, rayon, nylon, and other synthetic products having taken its place. From an economic standpoint, the sound market for Japan is China, but Japan's trade with red China is limited. This is particularly important to the Japanese as they realize that the trend of European economic activities will be against them. This is the first time in Japanese history that there has been fear of China, but it is there now. (Copyright, 1960)

'Here Lies the Heart' Brims With VIP Names, Anecdotes

BY W. G. ROGERS

("Here Lies the Heart," by Mercedes de Acosta. Published by Reynal, $5.75.)

This book might be used to divide sheep from goats. Social Register from nonentities.

If you know personally 25 of these people, you belong; only 10, you're on the make; nobody, you're hopeless. Miss de Acosta doesn't elevate this into a social document, but limits herself to the personal aspects of life.

Born into a blue-blood, wealthy Spanish family, brought up and educated in this country and abroad, Miss de Acosta wrote poems published in Harriet Monroe's Poetry magazine and in separate volumes, did novels, and turned out scripts for Hollywood and plays for the New York and Paris stage.

A Lucy Stoner, she always used her maiden name, though for 15 years she was married to painter Abram Poole, brother of Ernest who wrote "The Harbor."

Her family was Catholic, but she was introduced to Eastern religion by Kahlil Gibran; believes in psychic phenomena; and has been associated with Eileen Garrett, whom she calls a great medium.

She says she has wished for rain, and it rained; for snow, and it snowed. In a house into which she once moved, there was a constant file of ants across her ground floor. The owner promised to destroy them, but Miss de Acosta took care of it herself: To spare their million little lives, she talked to them, veered them off in another direction, and got them out of their danger and out of her way.

Unusual Stories

She tells extraordinary stories — how Isadora Duncan danced for her in a Long Island barn; how Sinclair Lewis pulled a chair out from under her at a dinner so she whacked; how she went to a bullfight with artist Zuloaga and Spain's King Alfonso; how Toscanini made sure of the gift of a Guardi painting; how she went on a wild ride

Hay Fever
Fading Away
As Menace

Air Conditioner Found to Keep
Air Pollen Free

Hay fever, generic term for all allergies activated by summer's pollen, is fading as a menace to millions. Within 10 years it will be virtually unknown except to those unfortunate who activities keep them outside in the pollen-laden August and September air.

It is estimated that 10 million pollen-allergy sufferers in the nation still suffer through an annual sneezing, eye-watering bout with hay fever, but the air conditioning and refrigeration institute forecasts that in a decade the non-air-conditioned home will be as rare as the refrigerator-less kitchen is today.

Many hay-fever victims already have discovered the benefits of air-conditioning in their offices, in restaurants, stores and public buildings and have joined the parade which each year swells by many thousands the ranks of Americans who live in air-conditioned comfort.

Laboratory Test

The ARI pointed to rigid laboratory tests conducted recently by Dr. Orren D. Chapman, professor of bacteriology at New York State University of Medicine in Syracuse, which showed that air conditioning reduced the amount of pollen in a test room by 98 per cent over that registered outside at the height of the ragweed season. In Dr. Chapman's tests it was found that, despite the fact that doors were opened as much as 20 to 30 times each day, pollen counts in the air-conditioned test room averaged well under one grain per cubic yard of air — so low the room could be considered virtually pollen-free.

At the same time, a non-air-conditioned test room located next door with windows open, showed pollen counts as high as 37.3 grains per cubic yard.

Generally, a count of six or seven grains per cubic yard of air in a room is capable of producing an allergic reaction in some people, according to Dr. Chapman. The higher the count the greater the number of hay fever sufferers affected.

All tests procedures were conducted in accordance with standard techniques recommended by the pollen survey committee of the research council of the American academy of allergy.

Filters Pollen

In addition to filtering pollen out of the air, the modern air-conditioner or system contributes to well-being of the hay fever sufferers by keeping temperature and relative humidity constant. Tests have shown that temperatures between 70 and 75 degrees, with relative humidity of about 50 per cent, are best for these unfortunate, and that sharp temperature changes tend to aggravate the condition to a certain extent, another reason why those working in air-conditioned offices, stores and other places of business have found that going home to similar conditions helps to curtail their discomfort.

Also of great importance, according to doctors, patients who sleep in air-conditioned rooms get a good night's rest, vital in building the body's resistance to other diseases which might otherwise strike those who are fighting an allergy, and may at the same time be rundown for lack of sufficient rest.

Finance Firm Buys Western

Pays $51 Million to Gamble-Skogmo for Auto Supply Chain

Minneapolis — Gamble-Skogmo, Inc., has sold its interest in Western Auto Supply company in a cash transaction involving $51 million, B. C. Gamble, president of Gamble-Skogmo, said Monday night.

The interest was purchased by Beneficial Finance company, Wilmington, Del., a consumer finance company.

Included in the transaction was 41.8 per cent of Western Auto stock. For this Gamble-Skogmo will receive over $45 million. Less than two years ago, the Minneapolis firm paid $23,838,796 for the stock.

Also involved in the transaction were additional Western Auto shares held personally by Gamble, his family, and by the Gamble-Skogmo profit sharing trust.

Acquisition of working control of Western Auto by Gamble-Skogmo was challenged this year by the justice department on grounds it lessened competition and tended to create a monopoly.

Gamble said a court fight would be expensive and would disrupt the company's operations. "It's just not worth it," he said.

Why Should Man Want To Drive Car 400 mph?

Donald Campbell to Attempt to Break World Land Record This September

BY HAL BOYLE

New York — Why should a wealthy businessman with a pretty wife—and a great joy in living—want to risk his life trying to drive a car more than 400 miles an hour?

"You can't logically explain why you feel something has to be done, and you are the one who must do it—at least I can't," said Donald Campbell.

"This is something you either feel, or you don't feel."

But friends say that with Campbell the desire to set a new land speed record is a matter of family honor.

Idolized Father

He idolized his father, the late Sir Malcolm Campbell, and watched as his father in his last race against time in 1935 roared across the Bonneville salt flats in Utah at 301 miles an hour.

"That was the ninth time he broke the land record," recalled Donald. "No other man broke it more than three times."

Donald, now 39, was only 14 when he thrilled to his father's feat.

"Little did I think I'd be back 25 years later trying for a new record myself," he said.

Donald, no stranger to speed, has broken the water speed record six times and holds the present record of 200.35 miles an hour.

It was five and a half years ago that he decided to bring the land speed record back into the Campbell clan. His target is the 396.196 m.p.h. mark set at Bonneville in 1947 by the late John Cobb. (The elder Campbell died in bed at 63. Cobb, his rival, died in 1952 in a speed boat accident.)

Donald's ride to glory or defeat at Bonneville this September will be made in a 30-foot gas turbine driven car, called "Bluebird," the same name borne by a long string of Campbell speed cars and boats since 1911.

Many Hours

It is a $4-million venture. The 4-ton, low-slung car represents the combined genius of 68 British companies, 5,000 blueprints and a million hours of labor since 1955.

Campbell is also bringing over 80 tires and 35 tons of engineering equipment and spare parts. The car is designed to go 500 m.p.h. but anything over 400 m.p.h. will set a new mark.

"The strain on the tires will be about 100 times greater at 475 m.p.h. than at 400 m.p.h.," he remarked. "But I figure the fun really starts at about 450 m.p.h."

Not Like Racing

Donald, a slender, dark-haired, friendly man with the handshake of a blacksmith, is mildly annoyed at people who class speed record attempts with ordinary car racing.

"Auto racing is colorful and romantic," he observed. "But record breaking is an adventure into the unknown. It is a cold-blooded lonely game. There is a carefully planned schedule of tests to follow. It calls for great accuracy and hellish mental discipline."

"The machine is designed to do certain things. It must be brought up to those points carefully, methodically."

Holiday Weekend Death Toll Is Estimated at 370

Chicago — The National Safety council said today that the nation's traffic death toll over the Fourth of July weekend could be around 370.

Disabling injuries in traffic accidents during the three-day weekend which begins at 6 p.m. Friday (local time) and ends at midnight Monday could total 13,000, the council said.

With nearly all of the nation's 73 million motor vehicles expected to be on the roads at one time or another, traveling some 7.2 billion miles, the council offered these safe driving tips: don't speed; don't drink; don't fuss and fume.

Even a non-holiday weekend is dangerous on the highways. The council said that 310 deaths and 12,000 injuries are expected on a non-holiday weekend of equal length to the Independence Day period.

Milwaukee Lawyer's License Suspended

Madison — Milwaukee Atty. Sidney A. Brodson, who told a congressional committee his gambling amounted to a million dollars a year, Tuesday lost his license to practice law.

The Wisconsin Supreme court ordered a 2-year suspension of Brodson's license. The order was contained in a 150-word decision which did not list the reasons for the court's actions.

Circuit Judge A. L. Drury of Kenosha, who acted as court referee in the case, had recommended that action against Brodson be limited to a severe reprimand.

Brodson, 51, was convicted in 1958 of evading taxes on about $100,000 in income for 1950. He served eight months of an 18-month sentence in federal prison at Terre Haute, Ind.

Family of Fans Increases for Varied Needs

Circulation in Day, Ventilation During Night Among Uses

The "family" of fans is ever increasing in size, shape and appearance — all for the comfort of the homeowner.

There's available today a type of fan to suit every need.

Fans are used to circulate air for daytime comfort and to ventilate the home for nighttime cooling.

In the daytime, when the outdoor air is warmer than that indoors, the thing to do is to keep the indoor air circulating by means of fans. Air in gentle motion creates a feeling of freshness. It aids the body's "cooling system" by helping to evaporate perspiration, which makes a person feel cooler.

Exhaust Stale Air

After sundown, when the outdoor air is cooler than that indoors, you want to bring in that cool air. The function of a fan is to exhaust the stale indoor air through a door or window, bringing cool, fresh air in through other open windows or doors on another side of the room or area to be cooled. If there is an outside breeze, the fan should be pointed in the direction toward which the breeze is blowing, to take advantage of natural air movement.

It's important to use the right fan for the job. For ventilation, to cool a room, small apartment, home or office, a window fan is recommended. These are available in different sizes and models including portable window fans, permanent window fans, "roll around" fans which may be rolled up to an open window or door, and twin fans mounted in a carrying case.

Year Round Use

For circulation there are hassock fans, desk-bracket fans, and all-purpose fans streamlined for use throughout the home.

Year 'round uses for fans include distribution of heated air in rooms of the home, remove kitchen and bathroom odors, drying clothes indoors, airing closets, ventilating basements, drying paint, drying wet clothing and shoes, removing dust and paint fumes, cooling cakes after baking, defrosting frozen foods faster, cooling cooked foods and clearing smoke filled rooms.

Summer Conference of District Attorneys to Be Staged This Week

Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds today announced that the summer conference of the Wisconsin District Attorneys' association and his staff will be held this weekend at Eagle Waters, Wisconsin.

Speakers on the program will be Atty. Walter A. Graunke, Wausau; Prof. Frank Remington, University of Wisconsin law school; William D. Rossiter, chief fire marshal, Madison; John Doyno, Milwaukee county executive; Gerald C. Gearty, FBI Office, Milwaukee; Charles M. Wilson, Superintendent of the state crime lab, and the Hon. Robert Hansen, Circuit Judge, Milwaukee county.

FBI Says Man Posed As Executive of Power, Paper Firm

Omaha — Richard Francis Breed, of Chicago, waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to federal district court for trial on a charge of transporting a worthless check in the sum of $2,000.

The FBI said Breed, 45, posed as an executive of a Wisconsin Rapids, Wis., power and paper firm. Authorities said he deposited the check at a downtown bank.

Breed met prominent Omahans and dined at some of their homes, the FBI said, while professing to be studying the possibility of building a branch plant in Omaha.

2 Railroads Fight To Control B & O

New York — A fight for control of America's oldest railroad — the famed Baltimore & Ohio — has erupted.

Directors of the New York Central railroad voted to make an offer for 1,550,000 shares of B&O common stock held by shareholders. The Chesapeake and Ohio railway already has offered to buy the B&O stock.

Central President Alfred Perlman said the road would offer Baltimore & Ohio shareholders 14 shares of Central common stock and 69 in cash in exchange for each share of B & O common.

The offer will expire Sept. 26, 1960, unless extended.

Appleton Man Denies Drunken Driving

Donald J. Gilman, 46, of 317 N. Richmond street, Tuesday in municipal court pleaded innocent of drunken driving. He furnished bond of $125 for trial Nov. 21.

Appleton police said Gilman was arrested at Richmond and Packard streets Saturday after a patrolman spotted him driving erratically and at high speeds.

JACK RUDOLPH'S STORY OF JAMES DUANE DOTY

Wisconsin Territorial Governor, James Doty, Was Colorful Failure

Post-Crescent News Service

James Duane Doty—judge, territorial governor and land speculator was a great figure in early Wisconsin history.

A colorful, charming and commanding personality, he was one of the state's most astute political leaders in the early 19th century. He was also a failure. Why a man with his gifts should have failed after such a spectacular start is one of the fascinating puzzles of midwestern history.

He was born in Salem, N.Y., Nov. 5, 1799, but grew up in the frontier New York state town of Martinsburgh where his father was a leading political figure and hotel keeper and his mother a sister of the town's founder. Doty and Morgan L. Martin, another great figure of early Wisconsin, were first cousins and very close as young men, although they later became bitter political enemies.

Not much is known of Doty's boyhood and youth prior to his arrival in Detroit in 1818. A handsome, strapping 6-footer with great personal charm, he quickly became well known in the future motor metropolis, then a hamlet of less than 800 population.

Controversial Career

Admitted to the bar shortly after his 19th birthday, he occupied a number of minor civic positions and attracted the attention of Michigan's territorial governor, Lewis Cass, later Andrew Jackson's secretary of war. For the rest of Cass' life Doty had an ardent and powerful backer.

It was largely due to Cass' influence that young Doty got the appointment as federal judge for that part of Michigan territory west of the lake. That was in 1823 when he was only 24 years old.

Judge Doty arrived at the little frontier community near the military post of Fort Howard in the fall of 1824. He remained a resident of the Fox River valley for nearly 40 years, carving for himself one of the most controversial careers in the valley's long history.

Made Enemies

Before coming to Wisconsin, however, he returned to New York and married Sarah Collins, a childhood friend. Sarah Doty is a shadowy figure in her husband's checkered career. Not much is remembered about her but she was always beside him, quiet, gracious and very capable.

Doty found his district a forest wilderness dominated by the military and a group of independently minded fur traders accustomed to running their own show. Through a combination of personality, charm and arbitrary command the youthful judge changed all that. Some of his methods were unnecessarily officious and gained him implacable enemies, but he established the supremacy of civil law in a region that had previously recognized only force.

He remained on the bench until 1832 when those enemies, particularly among the army officers he had antagonized, engineered his removal. By then he was a figure of consequence in the territory. He was also deep in land speculation, a game in which his exceptional knowledge of the territory was invaluable.

In 1835 he made more eneemies when the first Badger legislature met at Belmont in 1836, but as a private lobbyist he performed one of the greatest coups of his life when he engineered the choice of Madison as the capital.

Stormy Governor

By this time he was a formidable rival to Gov. Henry Dodge. Wisconsin's 12 years as a territory were largely a struggle between them, the balance swinging first one way and then the other.

Elected delegate to congress in 1837 and in 1839, Doty used his position to unseat Dodge as governor, a post to which he himself was appointed by President Tyler in 1841. Dodge then went to Washington where he repeated the maneuver and Doty was out in 1844.

His three years as governor were stormy. He was on the sidelines when his cherished dream of statehood became a reality but he was promptly elected to congress from the Green Bay district and served three terms.

Retired to Menasha

Defeated for the senate in 1851 and again in 1855, Doty's political career in Wisconsin was finished. He retired to his home on Doty island, now part of Menasha, where he lived until 1861. Little is known of his activities in those years, but he was apparently dealing successfully in real estate and growing old gracefully.

In 1861 President Lincoln appointed him superintendent of Indian affairs in Utah. Again he was called on to exercise all his charm, personality and political savvy in dealing with the powerful and suspicious Mormon oligarchy.

He succeeded so well that he was named governor of Utah territory in 1863. A completely new career was apparently opening when he died suddenly on June 13, 1865 — at Salt Lake city and was buried in the army cemetery at Fort Douglas, Utah.

Gifts Were Handicaps

For all his ability, James Doty is one of the most difficult of early Wisconsin leaders to analyze. He had exceptional gifts and vision but his character, motives and actions are a mass of contradictions.

He never explained his motives, some of his actions—so far as anyone has ever been able to unravel them—were downright crooked, and his enemies had the last word. Since someone—one wonders if his widow had a hand in it—made Wisconsin a separate

Red Light Tells Filter Is Clogged

At least one new line of room air conditioners has solved the problem of clogged and dirty filters. All guesswork as to the condition of the filters has been eliminated by the use of a bright-red light which winks on when the filter needs attention.

The light stays on until the filter is cleaned or replaced. To know the state of the filter, merely glance at the light under the hinged panel on the front of the cabinet. As the renewal of air filters is a major item it is important they be taken care of to insure good operation. The warning light is a real service to the user.

Louvers Move Air

Many builders of air-conditioned houses today are installing louver doors between rooms to make heating and cooling more efficient. The louvers permit the conditioned air to circulate freely even when the doors are closed. This helps provide a more uniform temperature throughout the house, eliminating complaints of some rooms being too hot or too cold.

Typical Investors Desire Knowledge

BY SYLVIA PORTER

If you're a typical investor today, you are a serious-minded individual who not only hopes for a profit and income from your holdings, but who also wants to know how to intelligently buy securities in the future.

Porter, typical woman investor, you not only want to be successful, but you also are eager to know about the technical details of stock ownership, financial statements and Wall Street jargon.

If you're a typical stockholder, you feel you should know a lot more about stocks than you do, you're thirsty for information, you're ready and willing to work to improve your knowledge. And if you're typical, you're not upset by temporary price breaks. Rather, you're investing for the long pull.

No research outfit found this out for me. I found it out as a result of an experience which has astounded me. Specifically...

In this space last April 19 and 20, I wrote two columns in which I tried to explain the meaning of the advertised warning "Investigate Before You Invest." Buried in those columns were suggestions that you write to the New York Stock exchange or your broker for free booklets which would help you to investigate securities.

30,000 Request Pamphlets

About 16,000 sent letters, postcards (and even a telegram) requesting 30,000 of the booklets! The size of the response amazed as much as it delighted me, for as one research expert put it, "This was no easy-to-mail coupon deal. A person had to read all the way through the columns, find the suggestions, voluntarily write for the booklets and identify what they wanted."

A review of the response now reveals:

A startling seven out of every ten letters asked for the booklet about financial statements—a booklet devoted to explaining price-earnings multiple, dividend payout, earnings per share and the like.

Almost half the letters asked for the pamphlet defining Wall Street's language. About four out of 10 wanted the booklet giving guides on whether a person should own stocks in the first place.

Nearly as many women wrote as men. While there are more women shareholders than men—52.5 per cent women against 47.5 per cent men—the idea persists that many women are owners in name only, and are interested just in get-rich-quick tips. This response from women indicates the popular notion is false.

Letters from physicians, lawyers, engineers, teachers (half of them college professors) stood out. Many came in from heads of corporations, executives of financial institutions.

The desire for simple primers which will help guide investors to intelligent decisions is unmistakable. The gaps which responsible financial firms and the stock exchanges can fill are obvious.

As Wall Street finds out more and more about your needs, its top leaders will act more and more to meet your needs. What you have said through this response is not going to be shrugged off.

Window Air Conditioners are the answer to that room that's too hot or humid in the summer days ahead: Units come in sizes to match the room size and solve the air conditioning problem for special areas when complete conditioning of the house is not feasible.

Air Conditioner Adds to Comfort Home Owners Find New Models Make Remodeling Easier

Want to add to the comfort and value of your house? Then add air - conditioning.

Many families who live in older homes, or in homes which were purchased for basic value with no "extras," now want to make improvements and additions.

Basic changes are often either impossible or exorbitantly expensive. But some alterations, which result in drastic improvement, can be made easily and on a budget.

Comfort, Value

One of these is the addition of room air-conditioners. With one or more of these, a home gains in both comfort and value. Family health is improved, sufferers from pollen-caused allergy find relief, and cleaning problems are minimized since the conditioner screens out dust and dirt.

Within the last few years, dramatic advances have been made in air - conditioning equipment. Now, even older homes can handle these new and efficient coolers. Only the rooms in use are cooled, so the burden on circuits is controlled. The units are simply plugged into an ordinary outlet, in most instances.

Installation has been simplified to the point where many can be put in place by the homeowner in a few moments.

Models are available to fit any window - some have washable filters - many are portable—some can be installed in the wall or over a doorway to fit into a decorating scheme.

Efficient low horsepower models have high cooling and dehumidifying power. Thermostatic controls offer set-and-forget comfort. Sound is at a minimum, and many homeowners find air conditioners especially helpful in shutting out street noises since windows may be kept closed.

Some of the new units are all - season conditioners - heating in the winter and cooling in the summer. Year-round temperature control and comfort is available now on budget terms, air - conditioning manufacturers declare.

President Called Qualified to Reappraise Containment Policy

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

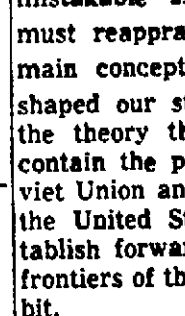

In the short time remaining to him there is still one great work which the president is uniquely qualified to do. This is to promote and preside over the unavoidable reappraisal, which must in many ways—use the words of Lippmann John Foster Dulles — be agonizing. The uprising in Tokyo, which went far beyond mere rioting, and the highly significant demonstration in Okinawa, are unmistakable signs that we must reappraise one of the main conceptions which has shaped our strategy. This is the theory that in order to contain the power of the Soviet Union and of Red China, the United States must establish forward bases on the frontiers of the communist orbit.

The strategic policy of encircling communism with military bases on the periphery was conceived immediately after the second world war, when the United States still had a monopoly of the atom bomb and was not only invulnerable itself but irresistible on the offensive.

In 1949 the Soviet Union broke the monopoly, and in the years that followed acquired a nuclear stockpile and the airplanes and missiles to carry nuclear bombs. Then the strategic policy of peripheral containment was bound to become increasingly unworkable. The time had come for a reappraisal of the strategic policy which rested on our lost monopoly.

Became Unpopular

The reappraisal was not made, and accordingly, the state department and the Pentagon addressed themselves to the task of persuading and conjoining the peripheral countries to eschew neutrality in the cold war, to line up with us and against Russia and China, and to grant us military bases. A few countries, notably India, refused to participate. But all around the rim of Asia, encircling the Russian and the Chinese heartland, we made alliances and established bases.

To our surprise we found that as we established ourselves on this dangerous periphery, we became increasingly unpopular, and the more arms and money and personnel we pumped in, the more the masses of the people and the intellectuals to whom they listened became neutralist and anti-American and fellow-traveling.

Stupid of Us

It was stupid of us to be surprised, and very stupid to allow ourselves to think that these ungrateful people would be loving and loyal if it were not for the communist agitators from Moscow and Peking. We refused to look at the stark and dominating fact that once the Soviet Union had become a nuclear power, the peripheral countries were defenseless. They could not be defended by "massive retaliation" because neither our European allies in NATO nor Canada and ourselves in North America were in a position to defend them against Soviet counter-retaliation.

We may not like to say it out loud, or even to see it at all, but there is a profound weakness in a strategic policy which rests on indefensible bases. However much we ignore this brutal fact, the people of Japan are very much aware of it. So are the people of Okinawa, who could be knocked out with one hydrogen bomb. Bases are no good in a country which is terrified and in rebellion because of the danger they create.

No Retreat

A reappraisal of the obsolete strategic policy need not mean a retreat before communist expansion and the withdrawal of American military power as a deterrent force inside Russia and China. It should not mean any of these things if the reappraisal is penetrating and thorough, if the action that follows is bold and is wise.

In Asia, in the presence of the two communist giants, the normal and natural policy of a non-communist country is to be unaligned in the cold war. As long as there is a balance of power among the giants, this is the best defense of the small and the weak against conquest and intimidation.

Neutrality, with American approval, makes also for good will and influence. India and Burma, and I think Egypt also, show that if we do not try to force these countries to become our military satellites, they will welcome our help and advice in their internal development and their resistance to communism.

Substitute Needed

done, and military planners are working on the problem.

Our outdated Asian strategy will not be revised in a day. The rebellion in Asia is undoubtedly mounting. To give the state department time to reappraise and revise and re-adjust its relations, and to give the Pentagon time to implement a new strategy, the most effective thing to do would be for the president to put himself at the head of the reappraising. This alone offers hope of reducing the virulence of the rebellion, a virulence which has roots in the terror of being the victim of a more horrible Hiroshima.

The president is uniquely able to take the lead, and to make the reappraisal and revision his validatory service to the nation. It would be an act of magnanimity and statesmanship, and it would lift the task of reappraisal above the election campaign.

The alternative is dreary—to pretend with Press Secretary Hagerly that nothing has collapsed, to go along with Sen. Dirksen and his nasty innuendoes. If the president stands pat, and pretends that all would be well but for Khrushchev's bad manners and the agitators in Tokyo, he will be inviting new troubles as the American position in the Far East crumbles.

A 2-Minute Course In Air Conditioning

Are You Confused With Claims, Counter Claims, Sizes, Capacities, BTU's, Humidity, Latent Heat, etc.

Read the Answers Now...

AIR CONDITIONING FOR HOMES OR BUSINESS

- 1 — Why do they rate air conditioners by ton and horsepower?

Air conditioner capacity is sized by ton, for instance, which means that a ton air conditioner will remove up to 12,000 BTU's per hour from a room, the amount of heat required to melt one ton of ice in 24 hours. Many so-called one-ton conditioners may have only 8,000 BTU or less capacity, which means the customer is being short changed if the air conditioner he buys isn't full capacity. The horsepower rating is the size of unit used to operate the compressor which removes the moisture in the air.
- 2 — What are the actual benefits of proper air conditioning?

Summer discomfort is mainly caused through excessive moisture in the air (high humidity) and high temperatures. An Air Conditioner is designed to remove this moisture, filter the dust and pollen from the air which relieves hay fever and asthma sufferers, and to cool the area down about 10 to 15 degrees. A business receives these same benefits, plus enhancing the establishment as a place to leisurely shop and relax.
- 3 — What do they mean by BTU?

BTU (British Thermal Unit) is a measure of heat necessary to raise the temperature of one pound of water one degree Fahrenheit which is used to determine requirements both for heating a home by adding BTU's and for cooling a home by removing BTU's. By taking into consideration the size and location of room, number of windows and doors, height of ceilings, average number of people in room, the quantity of BTU's you should plan to remove for a cool safety margin can be determined.
- 4 — Do we need special electrical wiring for an air conditioner?

Uninterrupted electrical power is very important to the proper operation of your air conditioner. There are some units that you can just "plug in" but you cannot be sure that you will have the cooling capacity necessary in extremely hot and humid weather.
- 5 — How can I be sure to get the proper air conditioner that I need?

Your home or business should be measured and rated by your local dealer who is interested, qualified and will be here to service your needs at any time. We have a thoroughly trained air conditioner installation department which we feel is tops in the air conditioning and refrigeration business. We handle all sizes of air conditioners for the home up to the largest commercial buildings. We will be happy to give you free estimates on your needs and offer you any needed easy payment plan.

Reporting of Custer Massacre Big Scoop in Newspaper History

BY CHARLES HOUSE
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

One of the most exciting news stories of all time was the one we know as the Custer massacre, but it is not remembered that the story was also one of the most exciting "scoops" of history.

That news beat struck the streets of New York almost exactly 84 years ago — July 6, 1876. Page one of the New York Herald blazed with the news, but the scoop was so hot that the war department had not yet had the story. General Phil Sheridan scoffed and issued this denial:

"It (the story) comes without any marks of credence; it does not come from headquarters — such stories are to be carefully considered."

Other newspapers criticized the Herald for deliberately perpetrating a hoax. Sheridan's denial was published everywhere, but only a scant few newspapers gave space to the massacre itself.

The story behind the story is worth the telling as we near an anniversary of the quick battle which shocked the nation as much as any story ever written.

It happened that the Bismarck (N.D.) Tribune had assigned a reporter, Mark Kellogg, to accompany Custer's famed 7th Cavalry. It was the diary of Kellogg which gave to the world the last reliable eye-witness report of the events leading to the massacre. It was from the diary that the story was pieced together. Kellogg's last notation was this:

Last Notation

"We leave the Rosebud (river) tomorrow, and by the time this reaches you we will have met and fought the red devils, with what results remains to be seen. I go with Custer and will be at the death."

Kellogg was one of the 226 men killed in the battle. The diary, found on his body, was the foundation for the Tribune's story.

Custer had been ordered to rendezvous with Gen. Terry but had, apparently, deliberately disobeyed. When Terry and his troops came upon the scene of carnage, they took among other things, the Kellogg notebook.

Two days after the battle, a Crow Indian scout named Curly arrived at the Little Big Horn River where Capt. Grant Marsh awaited the arrival of the troops he was to meet.

Orders Vessel Ready

Curly spoke the Crow word for "Indians" and then he drew a sketch on a piece of tarpaulin showing many dots. Captain Marsh nodded that he understood. Curly then spoke the word for "long knives"—white men—and he drew many more dots on the tarpaulin. Marsh nodded again. Then Curly bent over the canvas and, with a dramatic motion, quickly wiped away the second spray of dots. Marsh was horrified, but doubtful.

A few hours later two runners from Gen. Terry arrived with orders for Marsh to prepare his river steamer. The Far West, for a departure to Bismarck, N.D., 730 miles to press so he filed a bulletin lead to the New York paper. It read: "Bismarck, N.D. July 5—Gen. Custer attacked the Indians June 25 and he with every officer and man in five companies were killed. The Bismarck Tribune's special correspondent was in the expedition and was killed."

Then Lounsbury set out to beef up his story. He interviewed officers and men and attempted to fit his facts together. Bismarck had only recently acquired a telegraph office, and Lounsbury took it over. A telegrapher, I. M. Carnahan, stayed on duty for 22 hours while Lounsbury monopolized the wires. When the telegrapher ran out of material the editor handed him the Bible and told him to keep filing to retain the wires.

Fifty thousand words later (and a toll charge of $3,000) the East had been told the story almost as well as we know it today. It enraged the nation against the Sioux; it set the stage for the last stand of the plains Indians. A few months later—as a direct result of the massacre—the Sioux were defeated and humbled forever.

But the story of the Custer massacre may well stand as one of the best news stories in the history of the United States—and better than that, it was a scoop.

Child May Not Sue Parents for Personal Hurts

Madison — The Wisconsin Supreme court Tuesday reaffirmed its position—first taken in 1927—that a minor child can not sue its parents for negligence resulting in personal injuries.

The decision affirmed in part, and reversed in part, a ruling of Sauk county Judge R. H. Gollmar. He dismissed a suit against Sauk county and the Farmers Mutual Automobile Insurance company initiated on behalf of Mrs. Orville Schwenkhoff and her daughter, Lonette.

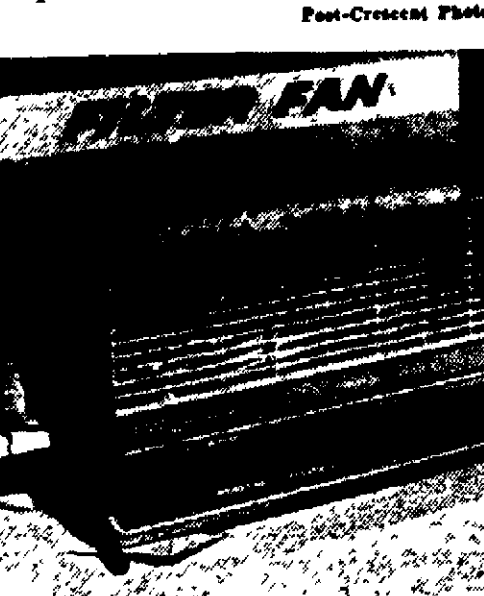

They were injured in 1956 when a car driven by Orville Schwenkhoff, Lonette's father, collided with a Sauk county sand truck. Farmers Mutual was Schwenkhoff's insurer.

As a result of the high court ruling, that portion of the case involving Mrs. Schwenkhoff's claims against the insurer can be tried; that involving her 4-year-old daughter must be dismissed. The original suit asked $12,000 damages.

Most Swimmers Young

Youngsters between the ages of 5 and 14 will make up the largest number of this summer's swimming population. According to the Institute for Safer Living, this age group also will produce an estimated 1,200 drowning fatalities.

If Air Conditioning is out of the question, a fan is the next best thing and may be the answer to the hot weather problem. Fans come in a myriad of sizes and prices, with fancy decor and plain. The window filter fan at the left almost looks like a window air conditioner. Appliance salesman joke that it is designed for the family that can't keep up with the Joneses.

Conjunctivitis Sore Eyes, Caused by Various Germs

By Joseph G. Molner, M. D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What causes the upper and lower eyelids to be sore and itchy, with pus in the corners. — L. R."

"Dear Sir: What is the cause of redness around the tip of the eyelids? Is there a cure? — Mrs. M. F."

These questions happen to be from Pennsylvania and New Jersey. Tomorrow there may be similar ones from Nebraska and Kansas. The problem isn't geographical, and it is a fairly common one.

Soreness (and sometimes pus) in the corner of the eyelid can be due to an acute inflammation of the conjunctiva, or inner lining of the lids. From this we get the name conjunctivitis. A more familiar term, pink eye, is a form of the same thing.

Is there a cure? Generally, we'll say yes, but to achieve that cure we must, of course, ask the question: What is the cause? What inflames that lining of the eyelid?

One big cause is germs, and they may be of various types—staphylococcus, streptococcus, the diphtheria germ, the tuberculosis organism, and others, although the first two, staph and strep, are the most likely ones.

This is the form of the disease we know as pink eye. It can be highly contagious. You know how pink eye sometimes can sweep through a school. That is one reason why a case of pink eye should have prompt attention.

There's another reason for giving conjunctivitis due attention! Cases can be acute, or they can develop into chronic cases, and in that event one wants to guard against the formation of ulcers, scarring of the cornea (the surface layer of the eyeball) or other eye damage. In chronic and stubborn cases.

flaming the lid lining, however, either with or without the presence of germs. (A combination of the two is not unlikely.)

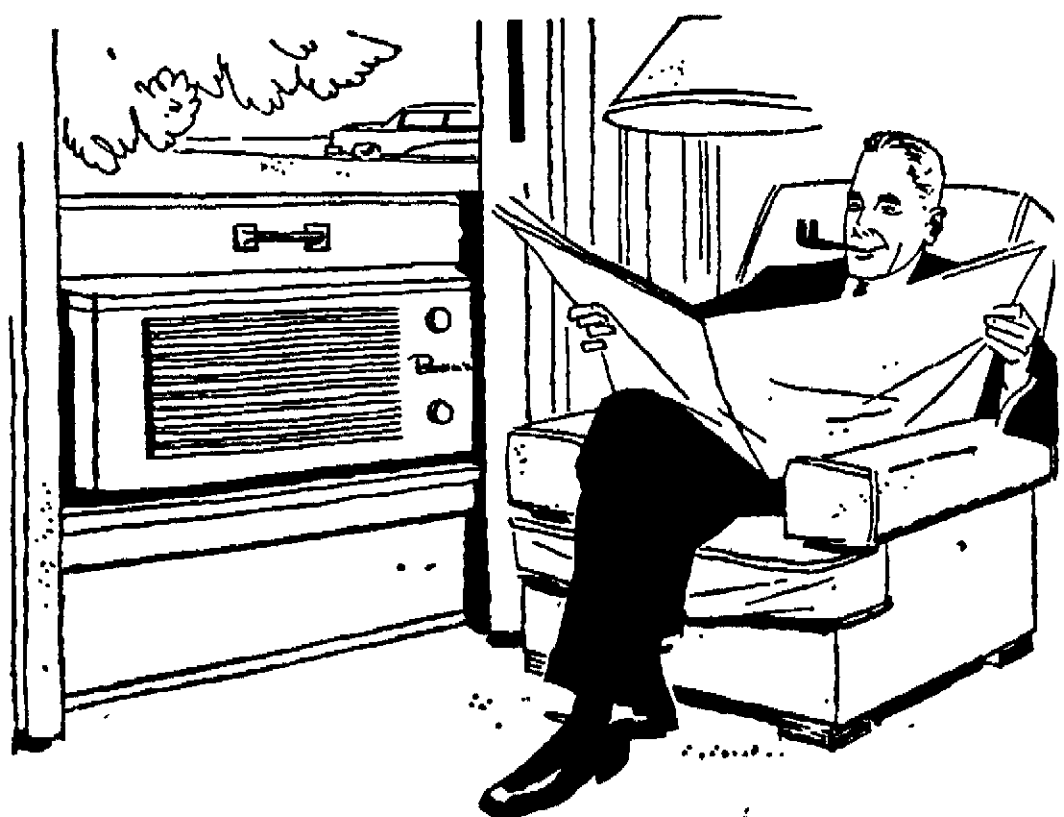

In the case of Mrs. M. F., there may be the possibility of allergy to cosmetics, since sometimes one may be sensitive to eyelash preparations, eye shadow, or even face powder. By the same token, result of one or another of the dust or chemical fumes may be an irritant, or in season the appropriate antibiotics, pollen from plants or weeds, so if the eye trouble comes and goes, a person may be able to track the cause to one of these sensitivities. Newest Sound in Hi-Fi Similiar to Radio

Dramatic Play Backed With Musical Score in Recent Album

BY HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Newsfeature Writer

The Broadway cast album of "The Andersonville Trial," according to 20th Century Fox Records, represents a "new dimension in the power of the spoken word."

Hi-fi fans will discover that the new dimension bears a suspicious similarity to the old dimension called radio.

What the album makers have done is simply added incidental words and music (they actually call it a score) to a straight dramatic play, the same way radio used to bolster the listener's imagination with background music and sound effects.

Not New

Even for recordings, the idea is hardly novel. London did a fine Sherlock Holmes album with Sir John Gielgud, using a lot of the old radio techniques. RCA Victor was equally adroit at dressing up the background of the Old Vic company's "Hamlet" album.

In the case of "The Andersonville Trial," there seems to have been too much tidying up in the background and not enough concentration on the foreground.

On Broadway, Saul Levitt's play about the trial of Capt. Henry Wirz, the officer in charge of the Confederate prison camp at Andersonville, Ga., was a taut courtroom melodrama that caught fire

Oscar Winner Can't Find Job

Heston Refused Epic Offers, Seeks Modern Comedy Role Instead

BY BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

Hollywood — Here's a sad situation: Academy award winner Charlton Heston can't find a job at least not the kind he wants.

"I've been offered at least eight tremendous epics," said this year's Oscar winner for "Ben-Hur." "I turned them all down. I think it would be suicide for me to do another one now. I'd never get out of the spectacle classification if I did. Besides, what would I prove?"

"What I really want to do now is a modern comedy. The trouble is that they all go to Cary Grant. I'm not proud. I'd be willing to take his leadings."

Heston was moaning over losing "Let's Make Love." He was offered the lead opposite Marilyn Monroe the same day that an offer came to do "The Juggler" on Broadway with Laurence Olivier's direction. He chose the play. It was a flop, and the Monroe picture went to Yves Montand.

Brightest of the new pictures is "Bells are Ringing," which brings entertainment back to the screen. (The movie currently is playing at the Viking theater in Appleton.)

The show has wit and sunny tunes and July Holliday. She is the principal asset, shining in her musical numbers and shading her comedy performance with enough heart to make it believable. Dean Martin has never been better; for the first time he exudes warmth. With more bell-ringers like this film, Hollywood's problems would be minor.

Shaw Comedy to Open Green Ram Theater Season

George Bernard Shaw's comedy, "Arms and the Man," opens the Green Ram theater's fourth season of summer stock Friday.

The summer theater, located in the Devil's lake, Wisconsin Dells resort area, will run for nine weeks, presenting a different play each week, Friday to the following Tuesday.

Nanci Kocher, Pittsburgh, will star in the role of Raina in the Shaw comedy. Other state actors in the play include Mitchel Roberts McFlya, Madison; Arlyn Zeller, Sheboygan; Gary, Rettgen, North Freedom; Don Burdick, Racine, and John Figmiller, Eau Claire.

Miss Gloria Link, faculty member at Wisconsin State college, Oshkosh, is in her fourth season as director of the summer theater. Rick McIntyre, Appleton, junior at the Oshkosh college, also will work with the theater in August.

'Story of Ruth' Great Love Story Rather Than Epic

Most Biblical films are stupendous spectacles centering on gigantic battles, massed scenes and the like, but "The Story of Ruth," which opened today at the Appleton theater, is different.

This movie, based on the familiar and well-loved Book of Ruth in the Old Testament, is a love story and a drama about tolerance. Portraying the title role in her film debut is Elana Eden, brunette actress from Israel. Her co-stars include Stuart Whitman as Boaz, Tom Tryon as Mahlon the goldsmith, noted stage actress Peggy Wood as Naomi, Viveca Lindfors and Jeff Morrow.

Two spectacle scenes, both integral parts of the story, include the Moab sacrificial ceremony and a quarry scene.

Our Children Unchecked Borrowing May Harm Youngsters

BY ANGELO PATRI

Children from little up love things. They can never get enough of them no matter how many their fond parents and relatives give them. They will, when they are in the younger set, help themselves to each other's belongings.

Ted, three, will grab Tommy's toy and battle to hold it. When he gets a bit older and stronger he will run off with a ball or a shovel. Of course, he has his own, but he "wants" another, especially if it is Tommy's.

Engagement of Miss Verhoeven Announced

The engagement of Miss Patricia Verhoeven to Henry Wachtendonck, Jr., son of the senior Mr. and Mrs. Wachtendonck, 138 S. Pine

Love Borrowing
The younger teen aged girls love borrowing each other's things. Sweaters, skirts and caps, change hands with an "I'll wear yours today and you wear mine." Rings and pins are exchanged as a matter of course.

This is all very well and great fun for the girls but it can get out of bounds. It is disconcerting for a mother to discover that the sweater she bought for her daughter to wear in junior high is being worn by another girl, not just for a morning or an occasion, but day after day, while her daughter wears one belonging to someone else. The reasons for objecting to this are obvious to the parents, but the girls seem not to bother about such trifles.

The worst side of this borrowing that begins so innocently is that it occasionally becomes a way of getting something wanted by the easy way of lending and borrowing. It is so easy to forget to return what was borrowed and that forgetting tends to become a way of doing and that can become an evil thing.

Your Problems Woman Advised Not to Lend Money to Married Boy Friend

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: For once in your life give some practical advice and don't be so doggone stuffy. I know you have to say certain things or you'll lose your job, but bear in mind I'm no kid. I'm a woman 33 years old, Landers normal, and I need love.

Of course, I'd rather be married to the man than not—but he already has a wife. You know the old story. She's a miserable witch who hangs on for dear life and he can't get a divorce.

I have an excellent position and will tell you honestly that I have bought him several suits, a cashmere coat and other gifts. He wants to borrow $800 as a down payment on a new car. He can't sign a note, for obvious reasons.

I have a close girl friend who is very smart. She tells me I'd be a fool to let him have the money. He's given me far more than $800 worth of happiness. I'd be heart-sick if he broke off with me. Please remember Ann, his kiss is like magic and I need him.—Normal Nellie

Dear Nellie: You need him like Custer needed more Indians. So his kiss is like magic, is it? Well, if you let him have the $800 I predict some more magic—like a disappearing act.

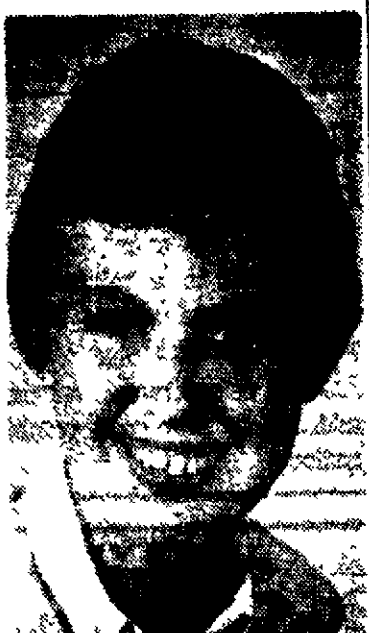

Love on the lend-lease plan is not love. It isn't even a reasonable facsimile, particularly when you are negotiating with a married man.

My old-fashioned, moth-eaten (and stuffy) advice is to quit trying to justify your immoral behavior by telling yourself you're normal. Send this jerk home on a full-time basis and find a boy friend who is somewhat more solvent.

DEAR ANN: We work in a large office. One employee, an old maid, has a habit of bringing a cake to the office every time someone has a birthday, and about twice a week when nobody has a birthday.

It's quite warm in this neck of the woods and because of the nature of the building we cannot have screens on the doors. Flies come in by the thousands. The cake attracts

THE STORY OF RUTH STARTS TODAY! APPLETON

This motion picture was produced under the guidance of Samuel G. Engel who also produced such noteworthy films as "A Man Called Peter" and "Come To The Stable."

"The Story of Ruth" is an interesting interpretation of the Old Testament account. Its message of filial loyalty is particularly applicable today, and its sincere approach will be appreciated by critics of overblown biblical spectacles. It is a commendable achievement.

In Good Taste Reader Can't Give Present

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: I asked a relative who is soon to be married what she would like for a wedding present. She mentioned a particular article and I said that I would get it for her. I had no idea this item was so expensive until I shopped around for it and it is really much more than I can afford to spend. Having mentioned that I would get it for her, am I obliged to do so, or may I quite properly send her something else? I would appreciate your help in this matter.

Answer: You can certainly tell her that when you said you would give her what she said she would like, you had no idea it was so expensive and that much as you would love to buy it for her, you are sorry you can't afford it and that you will have to give her something within your means.

Engagement Parties

Dear Mrs. Post: My son is soon to become engaged. He has informed me that his fiancée's mother does not like engagement parties and is not giving one for her daughter. In view of this, I would like to know if it would be proper for me to give an engagement party for the young couple?

Answer: If you mean a party to announce the engagement, it will not be proper for you to give it. If such a party is given it should be the girl's family who give it. However, after the engagement has been announced by her parents, it would be entirely proper for you to give a party in honor of their engagement.

Lighting Cigarette

Dear Mrs. Post: My fiancée smokes a good deal; whereas I smoke only occasionally. When we are out together and she takes out a cigarette, is it up to me to light it for her every time, or does she light it herself? We've been having a disagreement over this and would like you to settle it.

Answer: If you are sitting directly beside her and have or can reach, a match or lighter, you would do it for her, but you would not cross a room to do it nor would you take a match or lighter out of her hand to do it.

Mrs. Post offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning etiquette. If you would like to have her booklet, No. 303, entitled, "Etiquette of Service," send 25 cents in coin to Dept. E. P., care of this newspaper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Tiny Apron Beautifies

BY PATRICIA SCOTT

What to wear, and when to wear it? — that is the question. One small ornament, though hand-some, can make a break you if it is worn at the wrong time.

Q. Please tell me if it is improper to wear artificial flowers and a Pat Scott gold belt on white before 5 p.m.? I am so glad to have belt, on white or any other color, before evening hours.

Q. Can you tell me how to apply horsehair braid to the bottom of a skirt? The top part or edge is always too wide for the skirt and I don't know how to take it in. — Mrs. G. M.

A. Sew the braid to the lower edge of the skirt, on right side of fabric. Overlap ends about two inches. Turn braid to wrong side of garment. Baste along the lower edge. Shape upper edge by drawing a thread in the braid. This will take in the fullness you referred to. Secure the other end of the thread so that it will not be pulled through the braid. Blind hem braid to skirt. (see illustration).

Q. I have trouble when making a dress to make it fit in the waistline. My patterns fit my bust and hips and are perfect when the dress is finished, but the waist is always too large. What should I do? — Mrs. D. B.

A. In order to make the waistline smaller, you must adjust both the blouse and skirt pattern. Remove excess amount from front as well as back. Count the number of darts and divide the amount to be taken in, by the number of darts. Increase the size of each dart by this amount. However, this amount should not be more than one-quarter inch. If the pattern must still be made smaller, remove some of the excess from the side seam. Taper the line carefully and follow the contour of the side seam. (Copyright, 1960)

Senator's Wife Traces Life of Bill in Congress

BY ELLEN PROXMIER

The stampede is on. From what has been a desultory, slow-moving second half of the 86th congress, suddenly the pace has quickened and action is being taken on mountains of work in long, tedious marathon sessions.

This is a phenomenon of every congressional year. It is a nerve racking and often frustrating period, but a little digging into the legislative process indicates its inevitability.

Since congress convened in January it has received 3,500 bills and up until two weeks ago had approved a scant 150 of them. In the process of little actual law-making, over 10,000 pages have been filled in the Congressional Record.

Lack of Understanding
The reason for so shallow an understanding of the procedure by which a bill becomes law is, I think, because there are so many bills, the amounts of money involved are so astronomically high, and very little is written about the work that goes into a bill's preparation. This apparent lack of understanding is reinforced by the obvious disappointment tourists evidence when a visit to the senate or the house finds very few congressmen present on the floor. To help offset this misunderstanding, let's trace the life of a bill.

An individual senator or congressman prepares desired legislation. He must introduce it on the floor of the senate or house. It is referred to the proper committee. The committee invites supporters, opponents and most important of all, competent experts who may not favor or oppose the bill to testify at hearings before the committee. Members of the committee study the hearings and then vote for or against the bill. If a majority votes against the bill, it is dead. If they vote for the bill, it is reported to the senate or house to be put on the calendar until the party leadership motions it up.

Debate Bill
Once the bill has been debated and possibly amended on the floor, it is passed or defeated by a vote. If it is passed, it then moves over to the other body, is referred again to committee, again reported out, debated and passed or defeated.

The bill may differ in some respect after it emerges from the other house. If so, what is called a conference committee, including representatives of both bodies, is appointed to iron out the differences. When agreement is reached, the conference report is presented to both bodies for approval.

From here the bill goes to the White House to be either signed or vetoed. Once the president signs the bill it becomes law.

This merely is a sketch of the usual procedure. In reality there are many pitfalls that can delay or kill measures, very often secretly — a recalcitrant committee chairman can refuse to report out legislation; legislation can be quietly dropped by committee action; legislation can be talked to death (in the senate) especially as the urge to adjourn becomes more pronounced; or legislation can be so amended that it does not reflect the original intent of the authors at all.

Muscles of Congress
All this goes to prove that the standing committees are the real muscle of the congress. The fact that months of work precedes the reporting out of a bill means too that the last weeks of any session are necessarily hectic and too crammed for comfort.

At its best, this system focuses immense intelligence on our lawmaking. And at its worst, even when legislation is stamped in morning to midnight sessions, good laws sometimes result. Appropriation bills somehow are passed before their deadlines; private bills are passed before immigrants are deported; major legislation is handled each time — never to the satisfaction of everyone — but handled.

There are of course inequities, oversights and mistakes in judgement. But this is the democratic way — inefficient, expensive, possible of great improvement; nonetheless by far the best way of lawmaking yet devised by the mind of man.

A Lovelier You

By Mary Sue Miller

A swim suit demands more than a damsel's grooming than an evening dress. More of it shows!

For appearing your best in a swim suit, here are the grooming "no-nos":
A flawless pedicure. (If you use lacquer, it should match that of your fingertips.)

Fuzz-free legs and underarms.

A well-scrubbed look from head to toe.
Skin gleaming and protected, via moisturized sun lotion.

Smooth, shining hair. (When you cannot keep your hair tidy in a breeze, wear a beach hat — the most delightful one you can find.)
A bright, clear lipstick — two coats, well-blotted.

Neatly brushed eyebrows.
Eye cream, if you are over 25. (Applied lightly to the lids and under-eye areas, eye cream gives an attractive sheen and also keeps squint lines from taking hold.)

Doctors Warn About Fat Child's Problems

New York — America's children are growing dangerously fat, but adults, though concerned with their own weight problem, have neglected to count their children's calories.

Three studies by nutritional experts have uncovered an alarming rise in juvenile obesity as well as evidence that today's fat child is almost certain to be tomorrow's adult medical problem.

Dr. Marvin Cornblath of the pediatric division of Chicago's Michael Reese hospital, says that eating habits developed in infancy will last throughout adult life.

"All indications confirm the theory that overweight adults are just fat children grown up. Parents and children must be unsold on the idea that the bigger a child is, the better, stronger and healthier he is," Dr. Cornblath warned.

A report confirming this view was published by the Heart Disease Control center in Baltimore which studied 200 local residents beginning when they were school children in 1937-39.

Its findings showed that of 100 children who were overweight, 83 are overweight adults. Of 100 average weight children, 30 become overweight adults. Both males and females who were most obese as children became the most obese adults.

Studies made at the Fels Research Institute in Yellow Springs, Ohio, of 259 boys and girls, indicated that childhood overweight results in accelerated growth and early maturation.

Children who were above the average in fat were advanced for their age in height, reached puberty earlier and stopped growing for their age sooner than thin children.

Dr. Cornblath attributed the tendency toward obesity in children to overindulgence on the part of parents. He cautioned that mother doesn't know best if she insists on: The clean plate club as a sign of virtue. Too often a mother applies adult eating standards to her child who will stuff himself to please her and be considered good.

Never "throwing food away while children all over the world are starving." This creates a guilt feeling in the child who responds by stuffing to avoid disapproval.

Living by the rule, "We may be poor, but one thing we have is plenty to eat." This concept puts food in the category of compensation for other things lacking in the home, including love.

Machinists Reject Company Contract

San Francisco —A Striking Lockheed machinists rejected a company settlement proposal today by a 93 per cent negative vote.

Jack Burns, an international representative of the International Association of Machinists, AFL-CIO, said the overwhelming rejection came from 8,500 machinists at Lockheed operations in Sunnyvale, Santa Cruz, Van Nuys and Vandenberg air force base.

The ballots were sent to the company's peninsula plant at Sunnyvale, south of San Francisco, for counting.

Burns said the union and the company would resume negotiations here tomorrow at 10 a.m.

To enter the contest and try for one of these prizes you must unscramble the names of five candies. All the letters are printed on the candy containers in the contest picture above, but they are thoroughly mixed up. Can you rearrange the letters of each group to form the correctly-spelled name of a candy?

When you believe you know how to do it, clip out the picture. Paste it on a sheet of paper or a postal card. Beneath it print the unscrambled candy names. Also print your own name, age and address.

When the paste has dried, use your paints or crayons to color the picture or decorate your contest entry in any other way you believe will make it neat and attractive. Neatness counts along with accuracy when the judges examine all entries.

The last step is to mail your entry to Cappy Dick at the Appleton Post-Crescent before Friday midnight.

Outdoor Cooking Success Needs Right Equipment

Barbecue Boom Sweeps Across All America

The Fox Cities haven't escaped the barbecue boom that has swept the nation—eating al fresco has become a favorite pastime since we've discovered how wonderful even simple foods taste when cooked out of doors.

Whether it's a backyard cook-out, a picnic in a city park or a barbecue at the lake, the right equipment and safety measures will make the outdoor meal a successful one that's worth repeating.

Portable grills come in all sizes and shapes. Look for those with revolving spits, extra serving trays. Some have space for ovenware to keep beans and other foods hot and hooks on sides for hanging implements and potholders. Others come with rainproof covers, openings at the bottom for easy cleaning.

For away-from-home use, there are compact folding grills.

Paper Products

Don't overlook the boon of paper products to make outdoor meals easier to serve and clean-up afterwards a cinch. Paper cups of all sizes, plates, plain or gaily printed, table cloths and napkins, paper tissues, dishes with or without covers all make dishwashing a thing of the past. All disposable, they go into fireplace, campfire of trash can after use.

Wax paper keeps food fresh, insulated containers keep food hot or cold for hours and are particularly useful on a picnic away from home.

Accessories

By way of accessories you'll want long-handled forks and tongs, hot-pot mitts, a basting brush, extra dishes for sauces and relishes, tall salt and pepper shakers.

A wooden carving board is good for cutting up steak, and

A Family Picnic Away from home, yet not too far away, is not difficult for Fox Cities residents. The area abounds in beautiful city and village parks. This family totes its own portable grill that can be set up in moments in backyard or public area, although most nearby parks are equipped with fireplaces or grills ready for use.

For your chef's convenience, keep a roll of paper toweling handy.

In planning a menu, avoid too many different dishes but have plenty of what you do serve! Meat and poultry should be at room temperature before barbecuing to insure maximum flavor and moist tenderness. You'll get best results if you cook over a thick bed of red hot coals—not high flames.

Build Fire Early

Therefore, ready a fire ahead of time, anywhere from half an hour to an hour. Arrange the grate so food is eight to ten inches from the coals and use tongs for turning steaks. This prevents loss of precious juices from fork pricks.

Fire and burns are apt to be barbecue hazards. To avoid trouble try setting the barbecue stand on level ground where there is little or no danger of its toppling over. Do not attempt to move it while the fire is burning.

Experts also advise the use of specially prepared fluids to start the fire and caution against speeding things up by adding more fluid once a fire has caught.

To prevent burns, use long-handled implements and wear elbow-length mitts. Get asbestos ones, which are flame-protective padded mitts when proof. It is also wise to wear

Stuffed Franks Easy to Prepare

Simply make three slantwise slits in each frankfurter. Do not slice entirely through the meat.

Insert a slice of canned mushroom, a small slice of onion and a 1-inch square of cheese in each slit. Roast over hot coals; serve on toasted or plain buns.

Barbeque Equipment Needs Care

If you have been assigned to the barbecue patrol for the summer, you'll find a smoother tour of duty if equipment is kept shipshape.

Here are a few basics for efficient barbecue KP:

Brush the rods of the grill with a fat-free cooking aid or salad oil, and wait to put the grill over the coals until a few minutes before you're ready to cook. The grill will last longer and repay you with better service.

Two schools of thought prevail regarding the grill cleaning detail. The first is to remove the grill and clean it immediately after cooking. You can use a cloth dampened in cold water, or wrap the grill in a wet newspaper. The second school suggests cleaning by leaving the grill over the coals to char, then scraping the grill with a wire brush.

To gain more heat and speed up cooking, line the fire-box with heavy-duty foil. A bed of gravel or mica-like pellets on top of the foil keeps the firebox from burning out, absorbs grease, cuts down on flare-ups and lets air in so that heat is evenly distributed.

When your barbecue assignment is over for the season, the gravel and pellets may be placed on the garden as soil conditioners.

Popular Sandwich Quick-to-Fix, Tasty

Keeping on hand the makings for quick-to-fix sandwiches will give you top rating with the bike enthusiasts in your family.

A tasty mixture is grated cheese, finely chopped onion, with Tomato catsup. Spread cooked bacon, prepared mustard (if desired) combined with tomato catsup. Spread the mixture on the bottom half of split hamburger buns or between slices of enriched bread.

Wrap sandwiches in metal foil. At the picnic, lay wrapped buns on grill over coals, to permit cheese to melt. Keep buns from any flame to prevent burning.

Keep Camera Busy On Family Picnics

Youngsters at Their Best, Scenes To Remember Captured on Film

Summertime means outdoor living, relaxation, fun. Then the family has a good time together in the backyard, at the beach, or just stopping by the side of the road for a picnic lunch.

Outdoor eating symbolizes the relaxed freedom of American family life. And to get the best, most characteristic pictures of your family, keep your camera busy when you go on a picnic.

Youngsters are at their best: the boys intently trying to get the fire going; little Patsy taking a bite of hamburger; the 3-year-old helping mommy clean up.

On pictures like these, be sure to keep it simple. The child is the thing, don't try to put too many other elements into the picture.

Capture Expressions
Come in close, to get the boy's expression when mother breaks out the surprise freezer-full of strawberry ice cream.

There's far too much going on at a picnic to waste film showing a group of people staring stiffly into the camera. That sort of posing should have gone out with the tintype.

Get candid pictures; show the family doing things, from dad taking a huge swig of pop to the little boy taking a huge swing at a softball.

New Equipment
New fast films and the new cameras that set exposures for you automatically, make picture taking—whether color or black and white, movie or still—easy under all conditions.

If the weather changes, heaven forbid, you can still get good pictures, and if you're deep in the shady woods photography without flash is now practical. As a matter of fact, pictures in a forest are often better on cloudy days because the contrast between light and shade is less harsh.

So load up the family car and camera . . . and get the family's portrait outdoors.

Delicious Patio Bread

Gouda-Herb Patio bread is delicious! Slice French bread 1-inch thick. Arrange slices in a folding hand grill basket. Toast bread on one side; turn toasted sides up in basket, butter and top with thin slices of Port Salut cheese and sprinkle with oregano leaf. Do not close hand grill. Return to grill; toast remaining side of bread and allow cheese to soften. Serve hot.

It's Wonderful to Have a picture record of the family as the children grow up and the best shots often are centered on the happy times together. Here, the children pose with their mother and their dog on a picnic while father captures the scene with his camera.

Youngsters Enjoy Getting Picnic Ready

Let Them Help With Sandwiches, Sparkling Drinks

When your small fry get restless and "want something interesting to do," try a do-it-yourself picnic in your own back yard.

Preparing their own outdoor lunch is fun for youngsters and the work involved gives them a sense of creativity and accomplishment. As quick as a wink, you can assemble the props for an easy, imaginative do-it-yourself picnic.

Here's all the equipment you need: a table, paper cups, plates and napkins, and cookie cutters in decorative gay shapes. And here's a menu that's sure to be popular: a loaf of the children's favorite kind of bread, a new kind of cream cheese spread, a paper container of raisins, some carrot sticks—and instant sparkling drink tablets.

Children Can Help
The children will enjoy cutting the bread into varied shapes, slathering on the spread, and decorating each sandwich with raisin designs.

And they'll get a special kick out of the instant sparkling drink tablets that you drop into water to make colorful bubbling soda pop. Provide them with tablets in all available flavors—orange, lemon-lime, grape, cherry, root beer, hula punch and cola—and let

Wise Homemaker Has Picnic Closet

It's a wise homemaker who sets aside one section of a closet for the ingredients of any successful picnic—vacuum bottles, outing kits, picnic jugs, ice chests, bathing suits and caps, beach balls, beach towels and robes, blankets, sun glasses and sun tan oil, and of course, the children's sand pails and shovels.

You'll be amazed at how easy picnic packing can be when you have a "picnic closet."

Pizza Sandwiches

Special for the youngsters are open face pizza sandwiches. Add a bit of oregano to canned spaghetti meat sauce; heat. Split English muffins, spread with butter and toast under broiler. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Spoon sauce over muffins and top with crisply cooked bacon.

them drink heartily. The drink tablets are vitamin C enriched and sweetened. Individually foil-wrapped, they're easy to use.

As for mother, paper service means no clean up when the happy chefs have finished eating their picnic. Here's a new idea for a cream cheese spread:

Cream Cheese Spread
3 ounce package cream cheese
1 tablespoon milk
Dash of salt
1 cup finely diced celery
1 cup finely chopped peanuts
Blend cream cheese with remaining ingredients. Makes one-half cup.

Hot, Delicious Kabobs Made 2 Different Ways

For any occasion dictating an elegantly simple menu, we recommend the kabob. In particular, two skewer combinations.

Both have chunks of pineapple and pimiento olives interspersed between Swiss cheese and meat chunks. One uses the cubes of Swiss wrapped with bacon, the other with strips of sliced, baked or broiled ham.

You'll find that the smokiness of the bacon and ham will combine well with the Swiss cheese.

Besides, whereas other cheeses will melt away over the open fire, Swiss won't.

For best results brush both the olives and pineapple chunks with melted butter before roasting. Then grill about five to 10 minutes or until the kabobs are tender and lusciously browned.

For service push them off the skewers onto hot toasted buns that are lavishly spread with butter.

This Muffin Sandwich Goes Well With Soup

Here is a delicious sandwich to serve with a cup of chilled soup or salad for a tempting summer lunch. Split and toast English muffins, spread with deviled ham or homemade ham salad and top with wedges of mild nut-like Gouda cheese. Broil just until cheese softens.

Request Time Limits on All City Building Permits

Building permits will no longer be good for an unlimited time if a board of public works recommendation is adopted.

The intent of the present ordinance was not to allow permits to be good forever — but to be good for a certain period of time, after which they must be renewed.

Consequently, Building Inspector Walter Bogan says, improvements thus could be completed without Pierre knowing it.

Civic-minded citizens call him up, Bogan said, to report this, and sometimes "accuse me of being paid off for allowing it."

The inspector appeared at the board meeting Tuesday requesting the ordinance be amended to set expiration dates on all permits.

Board members decided to recommend the ordinance be amended to read that permits be issued for 1, 2 or 3 years, depending on the size of project.

The person who gets the permits will be required to declare how long the job will take, and the permit will be issued accordingly.

Penalty Provided If it is not completed in the estimated time, a $1 renewal permit must be obtained.

Also, the duration of the permit will be at the discretion of the building inspector. He won't issue a 2 or 3-year permit to build a porch or garage, for instance.

Penalty for violation of the amendment would be the same as for the present ordinance, a fine of not less than $100, or 60 days in the county jail if the fine is not paid. Each day of the violation is considered a separate offense.

Hilbert Man Arrested After 3-Car Accident On Appleton Bridge

Richard H. Eickert, 23, Hilbert, was fined $150 Tuesday by Municipal Judge Oscar J. Schmiede after Eickert pleaded no contest to a charge of drunken driving.

Eickert was arrested April 20 after a 3-car accident on the Memorial drive bridge in which a 3-year-old girl was injured. Eickert ran into the rear of a car waiting for a stop light, knocking the auto into the car ahead of it.

Eickert tested .26 on the drunkometer. A reading of .15 is considered evidence of intoxication. He automatically loses his driver's license for one year.

Butler is the chairman of the committee which is supporting the eighth district, Rep. John W. Byrnes.

Plans and work were made for committee chairmen.

Working with Butler will be Mrs. Carl Stracka, vice chairman; Miss Gerry Brewster of Kaukauna, secretary-treasurer; Thomas Hoover and Robert Beebe, campaign activities committee chairmen; Ralph Buchen, election week activities chairman; Richard Roeder, communications chairman; Henry Mims, campaign activities committee sub-chairman, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Ducklow, publicity.

Henry Sturm, former Kaukauna Man, Dies

Henry W. Sturm, 67, San Diego, Calif., former Kaukauna businessman, died Tuesday evening at San Diego after a 2-month illness. He was born March 4, 1893, in Escanaba, Mich., and operated shoe and confectionery stores in Kaukauna until 1928, when he moved to Wausau and operated a shoe store. He retired six years ago and moved to Arizona. He lived in San Diego for the last 2 years.

The funeral has been tentatively set for Saturday in Wausau.

Review of Public Service Order Likely

Madison — A review of a Wisconsin Public Service commission order that permits Langlade county to dam a stretch of the Wolf river near Crandon is expected to be sought in circuit court.

The commission refused Tuesday to grant a rehearing on the order. The rehearing had been asked by the conservation department which contended that the dam would destroy several miles of trout water on the upper Wolf river.

The dam would back up the Wolf about nine miles and create a 1,400 acre reservoir.

Deaf Hear With World's Smallest Wireless Receiver

The world's tiniest wireless receiver, so small it slips into the ear itself, has been developed for people who are hard of hearing. About the size of a jelly bean, this modest instrument picks up speech, music and other sound with hi-fidelity precision from a transmitter located in the bows of the wearer's glasses. It is designed for people who can hear, but can't understand. Because there are no wires, cords, or tubes running to the ear, the wearer can take off his glasses to clean them, or to rest his eyes, without unhooking or unplugging anything. He can put them on again, and hear instantly. This is the first air conduction hearing aid to make this possible. Air conduction, incidentally is required by about 90% of the people who have a hearing loss. The location of the microphone in front of the ear, instead of behind the ear, virtually eliminates wind noise, a common complaint with ordinary eyeglass hearing aids. Made by Telex, one of the nation's oldest hearing aid manufacturers, this revolutionary new instrument was unveiled to the public at a press conference in New York City.

Information about it can be obtained by writing Mr. Carl Allen, 1633 Eustis Avenue, St. Paul, Minnesota. There is no cost or obligation.

Proposes City Purchase A's Baseball Club

Stock to be Sold; CC Tries to Organize Private Investors

Kansas City — Councilman Charles Shafer has proposed that the city buy the Kansas City Athletics baseball club.

Ed Vollers, A's attorney and a minority stockholder, disclosed Tuesday that most of the stock will be sold.

No price has been mentioned.

Fifty-two per cent of the stock was owned by Arnold Johnson, who died last spring. Vollers said cash is needed to pay taxes on the estate. Some of Johnson's associates also will sell their stock.

Shafer suggested that bonds could be voted to buy the club and insure that the franchise stay in Kansas City. He asked for an opinion from the city legal staff on the legality of his proposal.

Meanwhile, a chamber of commerce group is trying to organize private investors to take over the club.

J. W. Putsch, chairman of the chamber's baseball subcommittee, said they were seeking 10 investors at $200,000 each "to raise two million dollars in earnest money."

Others then would be asked to help meet the purchase price, whatever it is.

8 U. S. Crews Enter Henley Royal Regatta

Henley-On-The-Thames England — The most American Henley Royal Regatta in history opens today on the placid waters of the Thames.

Eight United States crews have entered in the world-renowned 4-day regatta, the largest American contingent since 1839 when Henley was established as the international home of rowing.

Tradition-bound Henley never seeds the entries and the luck of the draw has pitted two of the best crews together in a first-round race for the Thames Challenge cup — the Harvard lightweight eight and the corresponding junior varsity of Oxford university, the so-called Isis Boat.

Braves Win, Pick Up Half-Game On Bucs

Spahn Shines After Rain, Long Rest

Chicago — (U)— Milwaukee's veteran southpaw, Warren Spahn, got an hour of rest during the game against Chicago Tuesday. It was all the time he needed to get in the groove and beat the Cubs, 5-3.

The Cubs had pounded Spahn for five hits in the first three innings and collected three runs before rain halted proceedings in the Milwaukee half of the fourth.

When the game was resumed after an hour's delay Spahn allowed only three hits the rest of the way and went on for his sixth victory against four defeats. The defeat was charged to Glen Hobbie, who held the Braves to six hits and now is 6-10 for the year. Hobbie has a lifetime record of 8-3 against the Braves.

Hits Sixth Homer

Big Wes Covington also had a lot to do with the victory, driving in two Milwaukee runs with a double and getting a third on a solo homer in the sixth, his sixth of the season.

The victory enabled the Braves to climb within 2½ games of the National League leading Pittsburgh Pirates, who played a 7-7 tie with San Francisco in a game called by curfew.

The Cubs got to Spahn in the second for their third run when Ed Bouchee led off with a single. Ron Santo got an infield hit with one out and Earl Averill's single to left scored the first run, Averill taking second on a late

Feeling Exists That Challenger At End of Line

Salt Lake City — (U)— The world middleweight title — NBA version — is the stake tonight when Champion Gene Fullmer of Utah tangles with challenger Carmen Basilio of New York.

The fight, a rematch of their

It will be televised nationally by ABC, starting at 9 p.m. CDT, with Utah and portions of Wyoming screened out.

The NBA title is recognized almost everywhere but in New York and Massachusetts. Paul Pender is the 2-state champion there.

"We are at the crossroads," Koeppler said. "Unless we can have immediate support from the fans, from business and from industry, professional baseball will fade from the Green Bay sports scene."

Thompson on Hand

Fresco Thompson, vice president and farm director of the parent Los Angeles Dodgers, discussed the Green Bay situation with local officials Tuesday.

Koeppler, in his statement, added: "When the Community Baseball association decided to discontinue operating the club, many of us dyed-in-the-wool fans refused to take that decision as final. We felt that a growing community with its sports-loving tradition would not permit baseball to fold, or at least we felt that the fans would make a real effort to keep baseball here."

"Many of us have now begun to doubt that this is true. It is true we had our usual siege of early season bad weather, but this we rather expected. The thing that hurts us is the fact that we cannot draw a respectable sized crowd under the almost perfect conditions we have had recently."

BY LEE REMMEL

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — The Los Angeles Dodgers, although unhappy over the sparse attendance that has greeted their 1960 entry here, have no intention of withdrawing their Three-I league Dodgers from the local sports scene "unless the Green Bay people want to throw in the sponge" before the season has run its course.

So says silver-haired Fresco Thompson, farm director of the parent world champions, who arrived here on what he termed "just a routine visit."

Although he admits Green Bay's current standard bearers are not highly representative (they are presently struggling to emerge from the league cellar), Fresco doesn't feel that "the position of the ball club" can be assessed total blame for the Bay's attendance problems.

Corbo Injured

"Admittedly, the club is down," Thompson said, "and that has something to do with it. So has the bad weather you've had here, as well as injuries. That injury to Corbo (first baseman Mel) hurt considerably because he was hitting .370 when he came here from Macon in the Sally league. But those are two things you have no control over, of course, weather and injuries. (Corbo, out with a

Shea Admits That Death of Bill Is 'Bad Blow' to Continental League's Future

Majors' Top Brass Happy Over Senate Action on Draft Measure

BY ED CORRIGAN

New York — (U)— Has the death knell sounded for the Continental league?

Or is an all-out baseball war in the making?

President Branch Rickey and Bill Shea, founding father of the Continental league, were mapping their plans today in the face of the most discouraging blow to hit the new league yet.

The senate Tuesday night killed a bill to open major league rosters to an unrestricted draft. This was the key to the success of the Continental league, which had hoped to start operations next year.

"It was a bad blow," admitted Shea. "But we still haven't given up. We've got to consider our plans a little longer before we decide what course to follow."

The bill would have made players owned by the major leagues subject to unrestricted draft once a year except for 40 on each club's roster. It would apply to players with four years' service in the minors.

Rickey and Shea were confident the bill would be passed.

It was debated more than a month and considerable acrimony developed between the Continental bigwigs and major league brass during the long hours of testimony.

Six weeks ago, Shea admitted that the Continental league had only two choices if the bill failed to go through—declare war or quit.

At that time he said: "The bill is the only hope the Continental league has of getting players and going into business. The majors have been fighting us with the strongest weapon they have—delay. Time is the thing that is hitting up in every direction."

Even if the Continental league — which still doesn't have a player under contract — managed to jam the bill through in Washington, another big stumbling block appeared no closer to settlement than when negotiations first started.

Indemnity Issue

That was the issue of indemnity for the cities that were taken over. In the International league, it was to be Buffalo and Toronto. The IL demanded $750,000 each and the Continental league offered $60,000.

The top brass in the majors was pleased with the death of the bill.

"It was a bad piece of legislation," said Commissioner Ford Frick. "It would have hurt the Continental league as well as the National and American leagues."

Said National League President Warren Giles: "Naturally, I am pleased that the bill in the form it was presented was not passed."

Observed American league President Joe Cronin: "We certainly are gratified at the support of the senators who voted to kill the bill."

Los Angeles—Ray Riojas, 137½, Fort Worth, Tex., knocked out Jimmy Hornsby, 137½, Los Angeles, 10.

Halifax, N.S. — Lennie Sparks, 146½, Halifax, outpointed Larry Wright, 146, Brooklyn, N.Y., 10.

Foxes and Bees Meet Tonight In Bargain Bill

Soos Win 2, Gain Full Game on Rain-Idled Leaders

The Fox Cities Foxes lost a game of their 3-1 league lead despite being idle Tuesday night.

While the Foxes and Burlington were rained out of a doubleheader at Goodland field, runnerup Sioux City swept a twin bill at Topeka, 4-3 and 6-4, to move within two games of the top.

The Foxes and the Bees will play a bargain bill here tonight—first game starting at 6:30. Chuck Symeon and Pat Gillick will hurl against Burlington's Bob Priddy and Jack Kelly.

Sioux City got only four hits in its opening win but were greatly aided by the wildness of Topeka hurlers. Norm Bass went the route to win the nightcap on a 5-hitter.

In the only other action, Des Moines won at Lincoln, 5-2, to tie Cedar Rapids for third place. Dale Smith tossed a double play pitch in the ninth inning to pull Des Moines out of a bases-full, 1-run-in-and-only-1-out situation.

Russ Casteen's homer led the Demon attack. Lincoln collected only three hits.

Senators Edge Out White Sox in 14th For Fifth Straight

Yankees Pad Lead to Half Game With 5-2 Win Over Kansas City

By The Associated Press

The Washington Senators, winning when they should be dead, suddenly are sixth-place spoilers in the American league pennant race with their longest success streak of the season.

Their two aces, Camilo Pascual and Pedro Ramos, are nursing injuries, putting the pressure on second liners and relievers, and slugger Harmon Killebrew still is hobbled. But they've won five straight.

After knocking Baltimore out of first place with a 5-2, 10-inning decision Monday night, the Senators stayed at it with a 2-1, 14-inning victory over Chicago's fourth-place White Sox Tuesday night.

Ray Moore and Chuck Stobbs, who won it, gave Washington's relief corps a string of 7 2-3 shutout innings in the streak.

The New York Yankees padded their lead to a half-game with a 5-2 victory over the Kansas City A's while Cleveland handed Baltimore a second straight loss, 3-2 in 11 innings, on Johnny Temple's home run. Detroit belted Boston, 10-1.

The Senators, who have won 11 of 26 1-run decisions in their 64 games, got this one without a hit in the fourth inning. They beat reliever Turk Lown (1-1) on Julio Becquer's sacrifice fly after three walks loaded the bases.

3-Run Eighth

A 3-run eighth, cracking a 2-2 tie, gave the Yankees their sixteenth victory in the last 20 decisions as Bob Turley (5-1) won his fifth straight.

Bob Cerv, batting for Turley, broke the tie with a checked - swing double off southpaw Bud Daley (10-4), who now has lost two straight after nine consecutive victories. Mickey Mantle hit his seventeenth home run for the Yanks and Norm Siebern his ninth for the A's.

Temple's second home run

Fox River Tractor Captures Pair in Babe Ruth Loop

Fox River Tractor defeated Pond's, 5-4, and Miller Electric, 14-7, in a recent pair of Appleton Babe Ruth league contests.

Fox River totaled 19 hits in the win over Miller's, with J. Plamen swatting four to lead the way. B. Bock toiled all way (seven innings) to pick up the win, on a 9-hit effort.

The triumph over Pond's went 10 innings with Fox River breaking a 4-4 tie game with a singleton in the top of the tenth. Abel yielded 11 hits over the route, fanning five and walking four. Loser DeNoble, also allowed 11 safeties, struck out eight and walked five. Anderson swatted two doubles and a single for Fox River.

Pond's nudged Miller Electric (seven innings) to pick up the win, on a 9-hit effort.

Alston Will Start Putting Emphasis on Young Players

Philadelphia — Manager Walter Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers looked ahead to the future today and remarked: "I would have an idea that you're going to see young players in our lineup more and more as time goes on."

"We're pretty much in the situation the Phillies were," he added. "We've got to goers with the young kids."

The sixth-place Dodgers lost, 2-0, to Philadelphia Tuesday night.

Alston rattled off names of some of the brighter prospects in the Dodger's chain.

He mentioned outfielder Willie Davis and shotstop Charlie Smith of Spokane of the Pacific Coast league, among others.

Wednesday, June 29, 1960 Appleton Post-Crescent G11

Would this mean the end of the careers of veterans Gil Hodges and Duke Snider, both in a slump this year, with the Dodgers?

"That doesn't necessarily mean they're finished," Alston said. "They would make a fine bench. I've never seen a finer spirit than these two old pros have."

Braves Again at Their Best With Covington Back in the Lineup

Club Playing at .652 Rate Since Return;

Wes' Knees in Shape, but Arches Bother Him

Chicago —(A)— There's no home two runs to pull the denying that Eddie Mathews Braves into a 3-3 tie in the and Hank Aaron are the big third inning against Chicago, guys in the Milwaukee lineup and then homered in the sixth but somehow the Braves are unable to roll when Wes Covington isn't playing.

Covington, a slugger who has been troubled with injuries throughout his career, currently is playing and the Braves are winning.

Before Covington returned to the Milwaukee lineup June 8, the Braves had a 22-17 record for a percentage of .564. Since Covington came back, Milwaukee has won 15 of 23 games for a .652 clip.

Just how valuable is that powerful outfielder? Manager Charlie Dressen, a coach with Los Angeles' pennant winning Dodgers last season, puts it this way:

Want Him In
"I was glad he wasn't in there last year. But I sure want him in there now. He's one of those guys who gets the big hit when you really need it."

Wes proved that again Tuesday when he doubled country. As a result I had to wear supports not only in my spikes but also in my dress shoes. It has been hard getting used to them but I'm sure I will. Sometimes my legs get real sore."

In other seasons, Covington has had trouble with his knees but says his knees are in great shape and don't bother him anymore.

When the Braves won the pennant in 1957, Covington hit 21 homers and 24 in 1958 when they lost the world championship to the New York Yankees. Last year he hit 7.

So far this season he has hit six and is batting .330. As for the pennant, Covington says:

"We'll win it. Dressen will make the difference. Not that Fred Haney didn't do a good job, but Dressen is right on top of the game. He doesn't hesitate when he has to make a decision and he'll make a difference of nine or 10 games."

And if Covington can stay in the lineup, it'll make Dressen's job that much easier.

Hard, Hantze Defeated In Wimbledon Meet

U. S. Has No Singles Semi-Finalist For First Time

Wimbledon —(A)— It was almost as if a cry for help had gone up from Wimbledon's ivy-covered center court. Chubby Darlene Hard had crashed in the singles and U.S. tennis prestige had slumped to an all-time low.

The 25,000-strong crowd left the ground asking where are the great Americans of yesterday? Where indeed?

Well, one was on the sidelines.

Hustling Miss Hard through a forest of sympathetic well wishers, Althea Gibson turned aside to drop a hint that Uncle Sam will be back with murder in his heart next year.

"If the Wimbledon championship is thrown open to professionals," said the 2-time holder of the women's title, "I shall certainly consider competing myself."

How did the 32-year-old Miss Gibson figure she'd have done this year?

"I think I'd have won," said the tacturn New Yorker.

As a good newspaperwoman, Miss Gibson was doubtless reserving her view on the American showing for her London newspaper column.

Little Trouble

On this year's form, it seems she would have little trouble in wrestling back her title. The impeccable Maria Bueno and the unpredictable Christine Truman could be the only conceivable threats.

This is the first time in contemporary memory that no American has been involved in one or other of the singles semi-finals.

Miss Hard from Montebello, Calif., cracked into consecutive double faults in the final set and was well beaten, 6-1, 2-6, 6-1 by South Africa's of the National Football graceful Sandra Reynolds league.

School Principal Posts to be Put on Full-Time Basis

Menasha Education Board Defers Filling Offices

Menasha — Long pending, the question of elementary school principalships was partially decided Tuesday by the board of education.

Beginning in September, Clavis-Grove and Banta elementary school each will have full time principals. Jefferson and Nicolet schools will be served by one person.

In the 20-minute special formal meeting, the board voted down, 3-2, a move to fill the posts as recommended by the personnel committee.

Three of the four present principals would have been appointed fulltime school heads. The Fourth, Elmira Junction of Nicolet, would not have become a principal.

Raymond Feit, now of Butte Des Morts, would have taken over the new Banta school, to open this fall; Marie Acker, Clovis - Grove, her present post; and Norbert Brunner, the two schools. He now heads Jefferson.

Heads Opposition

Opposition was headed by John Fitzpatrick, who said placing personnel and letting them set up their jobs is poor administration. He contended the board should set up specific job descriptions and then interview candidates, including those from outside the system, before choosing principals.

The board had asked the four present principals to prepare descriptions and goals of their jobs, were they named principals in the new setup.

Fitzpatrick's personnel committee and Gegan will work out the job specifications and salary by the end of July and offer it for board approval by mid-August, the board decided informally.

Adjournment came when John Pawlowski and Fitzpatrick objected to holding a formal session Tuesday, since they had expected to come only to an informal session.

Will Inspect Schools

The board July 6, before its organizational session, will inspect the Banta and Butte Des Morts schools, the latter converted from elementary to junior high use.

Pawlowski will secure estimates from contractors for repairing the roof of Butte Des Morts, which was spot-repaired last year. Recent rains have revealed large leaks and buckets had to be placed in halls to catch the water.

Menasha Driver Forfeits $33 on Traffic Charges

Menasha — Clement H. Metko, 26, 803 S. Memorial drive, Appleton, forfeited a total of $33 on charges of inattentive driving and driving without a license after his car collided with a parked truck belonging to the state highway department on Water street at 12:40 a.m. Tuesday.

Harold McQuillan, 30, 858 Third street, forfeited $14 at the Menasha police station for speeding on Appleton road Monday.

Robert M. Van Nuland, 19, 431 S. Grand avenue, Little Chute, pleaded innocent of deviating from the lane of traffic at Third and Racine streets when arraigned before Police Justice Arthur J. Aleson this morning. Trial was set for 10 a.m. on July 11. He was arrested at 4:50 p.m. Monday.

Daniel H. Kuepper, 18, 808 Seventh street, pleaded guilty of failing to stop for the traffic light at Main and Mill streets and was fined $5 and costs. He was arrested at 12:23 p.m. Tuesday.

Rural Neenah Youth Reported Missing

Oshkosh — Gary Gilbertson, 16, was reported missing by his father, Russell E. Gilbertson, route 1, Neenah, at 10 p.m. Monday. The father said his son left home at 10 a.m. The youth is described as 6 feet, 3 inches tall, weighing 175 pounds, brown curly hair, brown eyes and a fair complexion. When he left home, the youth was wearing light brown trousers, a red and white checkered shirt and rust colored shoes.

Ex-Mayor Says He'll Oppose Rep. Byrnes

Green Bay—The situation concerning a Democratic opponent for Rep. John Byrnes this fall was still cloudy today, but Otto Rachals, former Green Bay mayor, was the first declared candidate.

Rachals, who ran unsuccessfully for the Democratic nomination two years ago, announced his plans Tuesday night at a meeting of about 40 Eighth district Democratic leaders.

The meeting left this situation: Milo Singler, Shiocton farmer who opposed Byrnes in 1956 and 1958, said today that the situation "is looking more attractive" and that he will have made up his mind in the next several days. Rachals would make no difference if he decides to run, Singler said.

"I prefer that there be no primary, naturally, because it would be better for me

Required Class Offerings Get Board Study

MHS Principal Suggests Subjects For Each Year

Menasha — Rescheduled class offerings, effective in 1961, were described Tuesday to the board of education by Prin. L. A. Wienbergen of the high school. No formal action was taken.

The tentative class schedules were prepared by faculty study groups without increasing the number of requirements but could necessitate about four more teachers in the first two years after making such changes.

Suggested required classes, by years, would be:

Sophomore — English II, world history, a second year of science and physical education.

Junior — English III, American history, physical education, and a second year of science.

Senior — English IV, physical education, American problems (if the pupil did not take civics in freshman year) and a second year of science.

The second year of science could be taken in any year. American and world history and algebra or general mathematics would be advanced one year each.

College Electives

Electives for college-bound could be: Spanish or Latin, up to four years in the latter, geometry and biology in sophomore, junior mathematics and physics in senior year.

Commercial course electives would be typing I and biology in sophomore, typing II and shorthand I in junior and bookkeeping, shorthand II and office training in senior years.

Home economics, chorus, art, band and mechanical drawing would be offered as electives, as at present.

Rescheduling the classes would cause budget problems because the courses would have double loads in the first year.

Decision on shifts was deferred until about Jan. 1, 1961.

Car Plunges Into Canal, 4 Drown

Sandwich, Mass. — Three women and a man drowned last night when their car plunged into Cape Cod canal and landed on its roof in 30 feet of water.

The victims were identified as Joseph C. Severance, 81; his wife, Amelia, about 65; of Scituate; Mrs. Arthur Betten-court, 65, of East Weymouth; and Mrs. Hilda L. Giordani, 60, of North Weymouth.

The Severance couple had been staying in Plymouth and the other two women were believed to have been visiting them.

The car climbed an 18-inch barrier and went over a bulkhead retaining the bank of the canal.

Coast guard personnel secured a grappling hook to the car and hauled it ashore with the help of a tractor within a half hour.

Efforts by the coast guard, fire and police departments, a physician and volunteers to revive the quartet were fruitless.

Dr. John Lewis, a local physician who rushed to the scene, identified Severance and said he had treated the elderly man on several occasions.

Boys, Girls Admit Auto Theft Sprees

Confessions by two teenage youths and three teenage girls have solved a series of car thefts dating back to the first of the year, Police Chief Walter J. Hendricks said today. The cases are not related.

The boys, 15 and 16 years old, admitted taking five cars in Appleton and one in Winnebago county since Jan. 26. The 15-year-old, however, was involved in just two of the thefts, Hendricks said.

The youths, when they worked together, and the other, when he was alone, would look for automobiles with the keys in the ignition. Their only apparent motive was a desire to go joyriding. They said they drove one of the stolen cars at speeds up to 100 miles an hour on Highway 41.

Ditched Sports Car They admitted taking cars together on Jan. 29 and March 29. One youth admitted thefts on Jan. 26, Jan. 27, and March 4.

The two boys March 29 took a sports car belonging to Reinhardt Sabee, 728 S. Summit street. They drove to Oshkosh and then decided to go to Princeton. The car spun out of control and into a ditch on Highway 44. They abandoned the car and went to the farmyard of Alex Oleszewski, route 3, Oshkosh, and took his automobile. They returned to Appleton in this car and abandoned it.

The pair admitted taking a car owned by Merrill Magoon, 709 E. Brewster street, Jan. 29. They said they went out looking for a car to steal and found Magoon's car with the keys in the ignition parked in the Moose club parking lot. They drove the car out to

State Marks 50 Years of Adult Schools

Now Have 45 Vocational Education Centers

Madison — The state department of vocational and adult education is calling for local observances of the 50th anniversary of publicly-supported vocational and adult schools in the state this year.

In 1910 the first legislative action was taken in Wisconsin for the encouragement of such local instruction centers, and it was one of the pioneering achievements of the state in that era.

There are now 45 adult education centers in the state, operated as units of municipal governments, with state and federal participation. The recent Wisconsin legislature in spite of financial worries appropriated additional state funds for their support, in response to widespread demands local labor organizations, employers and other interests.

Greater Effort C. L. Griebler, chief of the state supervising agency, urged local administrators to anticipate future changes in their curricula.

"As we complete a half century of educational service to out-of-school youth and adults, we must plan for an even greater effort in the future," he wrote.

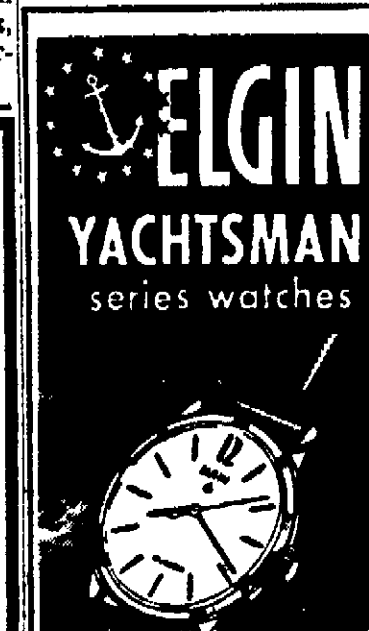

"Our objectives must always be the strengthening and expansion of the instructional program. The most important individual in our movement is the outstanding teacher," he added.

One of the 16-year-olds also confessed stealing May 17 a car belonging to Ivor Lewis, 206 N. Lawe street.

The girls, two of them aged 16 and one 18, admitted that May 21 they took a car from the Elks club parking lot belonging to Gilbert Schumacher, DePere.

One of the 16-year-olds also confessed stealing May 17 a car belonging to Ivor Lewis, 206 N. Lawe street.

The girls were arrested following an investigation which began when an Appleton patrolman noticed that there were girls in a car matching the description of the Schumacher vehicle. The girls were challenged but didn't stop. The policeman was on foot.

Menasha Board Considers Philosophy of Education

Menasha — A 2-sentence, 2-for creative thinking, person-paragraph philosophy of education, social adjustment and paration statement was presented Tuesday to the board of education by Commissioner guidance programs, elective John Fitzpatrick, the result of pulling together several statements previously considered.

It reads: "The primary purpose of the Menasha public school system is to provide a comprehensive, integrated educational program from kindergarten through grade 12 which will give each student the limit of his individual capacity, the maximum possible knowledge and skill in the basic fields of language, mathematics, natural science, social science, music, art and physical education. "This educational program shall also provide the opportunity for each student to develop his maximum potential."

School Responsibility Fitzpatrick added that schools are responsible for developing students to capacity, including the "track" system for pupils of varying abilities, within limits of budget, facilities and students.

Once a philosophy is adopted, Commissioner John Pawlowski suggested defining the capacity, the maximum possible knowledge and skill in the basic fields of language, mathematics, natural science, social science, music, art and physical education.

Other board members thought the statement was good and covered the aims of the school system. It will be discussed and possibly approved at the July 6 meeting.

Avid Fisherman Almost Drowned Plans New Trip

Marathon, Fla. — A Dade City man reported drowned after falling from his boat into the choppy Atlantic ocean planned another fishing trip today—but this time he'll operate the boat.

Donald Hormuth, 25, and his wife, Bonnie Lou, were fishing east of Marathon yesterday. Mrs. Hormuth decided to move to a new location. She started the boat with a lurch and her husband toppled off the stern and into the water. Several minutes went by before she learned her husband was no longer aboard. After a fruitless search of the sea, Mrs. Hormuth notified other boats and the coast guard.

Then came the coast guard report that Hormuth apparently drowned. Three hours

Rail Shares Move Higher

Remainder of List Irregular; Trading Volume Slackens

New York—(U)—Rails perked up on the favorable atmosphere for railroad mergers while the rest of the stock market moved irregularly as trading slackened early this afternoon.

Gains and losses of fractions to about a point were the rule for most leading issues.

There was little business news or sentiment to prompt the market to a sharp move either way.

Steels, after sharp recent declines, were narrowly mixed. Motors, oils, building materials, aircrafts and electronics also were mixed. Chemicals were mostly lower.

Opinion differed among Wall street analysts as to immediate prospects for a "summer rally."

Baltimore & Ohio, up about a point, continued its advance on Tuesday's news that New York Central has made an offer for 60 per cent of B & O stock. Central was steady. Chesapeake & Ohio, which also is interested in a merger with B & O, was off a fraction.

DuPont fell about 3. NAFI dropped more than a point.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up .29 to 637.75.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was off .10 at 221.50 with the industrials off .60, the rails up .80 and utilities down .20.

Wind, Rain Breaks Three Electric Lines

A 53-mile - an-hour wind accompanied by a driving rain caused several minor interruptions in electrical service throughout the Fox Cities about 6:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Three wires were broken by the wind near Neenah, on E. Pacific street, in Appleton and a tree blew across lines at 1018 S. Kernan.

Rainfall measured .83 of an inch in a series of thundershowers. Cities to the east faired less well than the Fox Cities. Heavy rains flooded sections of highways south of Manitowoc, caused damage to city homes, and water pressure caused a basement wall to collapse.

Damaging winds ripped a 50-mile path across part of western Kentucky early today, uprooting trees, snarling telephone and electric lines and injuring three soldiers on bivouac at Ft. Breckinridge.

The soldiers were not critically hurt, Henderson hospital reported. The men were on overnight maneuvers and were caught beneath a tree felled by the fierce winds.

Reports to the weather bureau mentioned tornadoes in several communities, but residents of the storm area and state and local police said they had not been able to confirm these reports.

Hits Power Pole

A car driven by Gerald M. Mueller, 19, of 217 N. Bennett street, failed to complete a turn from Broadway drive onto N. Meade street. Tuesday morning and rammed into a power pole, county police reported today. Mueller received a cut lip. The pole was broken.

Health Board Authorizes Two Studies

Discusses Nurses For City, Schools, Health Educator

Two studies of prospective programs requiring the cooperation of the Appleton board of health and board of education were authorized by the board of health today.

One program, concerning the functions of a health educator will be studied jointly by representatives of the two boards and the city council.

The other directed Health Commissioner Dr. Marvin S. Kagen to investigate the possibility of an evaluation survey of the public health and school nurses. The survey would help the board of health determine if the city has adequate nursing services, and if the school nurses should be transferred to the health department.

Advice Offered

Dr. G. M. Shinnors, district health officer of the state board of health, and Miss Lorne M. Rowley, director of the bureau of public health nursing, attended the meeting and offered advice on the two prospective programs. Representing the school board were Mrs. Myrl N. Davis and John P. Mann, superintendent of schools.

Dr. Shinnors suggested that the money in the city budget earmarked for a health educator's salary might be used to strengthen and expand the health department.

A health educator hired by the board of health might be contracted or "sold" to the board of education for part time work in the schools, Dr. Kagen suggested. The rest of the time he would spend in the health department, and function as a community health educator.

Politicians Seek Suburbia's Vote

Hard-Soft Sell Aimed at Land Of Female Reign, Barbecue Pit

BY WILLIAM S. WHITE is now put at 100,000,000—or 61 per cent of the national total. Moreover, most of the great cities themselves have been shrinking as people have moved to the suburbs. Four of the biggest cities—New York, Chicago, Philadelphia and Detroit—have actually lost population. Los Angeles alone among the big five has gained.

Professional politicians in both parties are reading and digesting these figures and making plans on the basis of them. They are not only well aware that the votes lie in suburbia. They are equally aware that it is in suburbia, far more than on the farms or in the apartments of the big cities, where reigns beyond possible challenge the new boss-sex in this country, the female.

Hard-Soft Sell Suburbia is largely a feminine creation, with its opportunities for flowers, innumerable women's club luncheons and other things which make up the good life, neither would come in last on a national list of best-dressed men. The same can be said for the man who is presently third among the Democrats, Sen. Stuart Symington, 50. It is not merely a party that will win in 1960; suburbia will win, too.

The labor vote and the farm vote are of course still significant. They are not, however, nearly so significant as they used to be. To each of these groups very down-to-earth pitches will be made, in terms of plain self-interest. To suburbia the pitch will be on a higher plane; here the mel-only the old man who must wrestle with the daily commuting.)

So it is that the Republican and the Democratic parties alike will offer what might be called a soft-hard sell for the presidential candidates. The accent will be on a quiet, well-tailored dignity, so far as may be possible, in tune with the gardens of suburbia and the nearby country club. Yet underneath all this amiability each party will try to leave the final impression that its nominee is surely the tougher of the two—in a nice way, that is.

The Look in Nominees The programs now prepared by both political conventions make the point clearly: the plan is for comparatively brief televised sessions with "plenty of punch"—but not too much of it. Everything conceivable is being done to make watching over the TV as pleasant as possible.

Moreover, both parties will choose comparatively young nominees who look more like briskly successful brokers than like the common conception of old style politician. Vice President Richard M. Nixon at 47 is far from decrepit, either in years or in appearance. Neither of the two strongest Democratic presidential aspirants, Sen. John F. Kennedy, 43, and Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, 51, is a venerable old party, and nobody will be more important than the words.

Policemen of The Fox Cities

Wayne F. Huebner, 34, of 1315 E. Byrd street, joined the Appleton force June 15, 1949, and is a patrolman. He is married and has two daughters and a son. He is a graduate of Appleton High school. Huebner's hobby is fishing. He formerly worked as a sheet metal worker.
